

Many Tribes across the country are taking the initiative to stop, or prevent human trafficking from occurring on Tribal lands, or to Tribal citizens. Several Tribes have adopted laws against the crime of human trafficking. In addition, many have implemented awareness-raising trainings for Tribal casino employees. This work protects tribal citizens, casino patrons, and nearby communities.

TRAFFICKERS DON'T DISCRIMINATE. Anyone can become a victim of human trafficking.

Human trafficking is modern-day slavery and involves the use of force, fraud, or coercion to obtain some type of labor or commercial sex act. Millions of men, women, and children are trafficked into forced labor situations and into the sex trade worldwide.

It is a crime that is often "hidden in plain sight" and targets the most vulnerable members of society. Victims can be any age, race, gender, or nationality. American Indians and Alaska Natives have been identified as particularly vulnerable populations in the United States, due to factors including, but not limited to poverty, previous abuse, and historical trauma.

Human trafficking is different from human smuggling. Trafficking is exploitation-based and does not require movement across borders or any type of transportation
