SUPPLEMENTAL AND DISSenting VIEWS

[To accompany H.R. 1920]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 1920) to establish Federal standards and regulations for the conduct of gaming activities on Indian reservations and lands, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon with an amendment and recommend that the bill as amended do pass.

The amendment is as follows:

Page 1, line 3, strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following in lieu thereof:

That this Act may be cited as the “Indian Gaming Regulatory Act”.

Sec. 2. (a) The Congress finds that—

(1) numerous Indian tribes have become engaged in or have licensed gaming activities on Indian lands as a means of generating tribal governmental revenue;

(2) Indian tribes have the exclusive right to regulate gaming activity on Indian lands which is not specifically prohibited by Federal law and which is conducted within a State which does not, as a matter of criminal law and public policy, prohibit such gaming activity;

(3) there are no existing statutes which require approval of management contracts dealing with Indian gaming;

(4) existing Federal law does not provide clear standards or regulations necessary to insure the orderly conduct of gaming activities on Indian lands;

(5) a principal goal of Federal Indian policy is to promote tribal economic development, tribal self-sufficiency, and strong tribal government; and
(6) tribal operation and licensing of gaming activities is a legitimate means of generating revenues.

(b) The Congress declares that the establishment of Federal standards for gaming activity on Indian lands and a National Indian Gaming Commission are necessary to meet the concerns regarding gaming activities and to protect such activities as a means of generating tribal revenue.

Sec. 3. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), Class II and III gaming regulated by this Act shall be unlawful on any lands acquired by the Secretary, under any existing authority, in trust for the benefit of any Indian tribe after December 4, 1985, if such lands are located outside the boundaries of such tribe’s reservation.

(b) Subsection (a) shall not apply if the Indian tribe requesting the acquisition of such lands in trust obtains the concurrence of the Governor of the State, the State legislature, and the governing bodies of the county and municipality in which such lands are located.

Sec. 4. Provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, concerning the taxation and the reporting and withholding of taxes pursuant to the operation of a gambling or wagering operation shall apply to the operations in accord with the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act the same as they apply to State operations.

Sec. 5. (a) There is established within the Department of the Interior an independent commission to be known as the National Indian Gaming Commission.

(b) The Commission shall be composed of eight members as follows:

(A) a Chairman who shall serve full-time and who shall be appointed by, and serve at the pleasure of, the Secretary;

(B) a member to be selected by the Attorney General and appointed by the Secretary;

(C) five members, at least three of whom shall be enrolled members of Federally recognized tribes, to be appointed by the Secretary from a list of not less than ten nor more than twenty candidates submitted and approved by a majority of the tribes then engaged in or regulating gaming activities; and

(D) one member appointed by the Secretary after consultation with appropriate organizations or entities, who shall represent the interest of the States.

(2) Not more than four members of the Commission shall be of the same political party.

(3) (A) Except for the Chairman and except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, members shall be appointed for terms of three years.

(B) Of the members first appointed—

(i) the member appointed pursuant to paragraph (1)(B) and two of the members appointed pursuant to paragraph (1)(C) shall be appointed for a term of two years; and

(ii) the remaining members appointed pursuant to paragraph (1)(C) and (1)(D) shall be appointed for a term of three years.

(4) Any individual who—

(A) has been convicted of a felony or gaming offense;

(B) has any management responsibility in any gaming activity regulated pursuant to this Act; or

(C) has a financial interest in, or management responsibility for, any management contract approved pursuant to section 12 of this Act shall not be eligible for appointment to, or to continue service on, the Commission.

(5) Except for the Chairman, a member of the Commission may be removed for good cause by a majority vote of the remaining members subject to the approval of the Secretary or, in the case of a member appointed pursuant to paragraph (1)(B), the Attorney General.

(c) (1) Vacancies occurring on the Commission as a result of the expiration of the terms of appointment shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment. A member may serve after the expiration of his term until his successor has been appointed.

(2) Other vacancies occurring on the Commission shall be filled by a majority vote of the Commission and members so appointed shall serve the remainder of the terms for which his predecessor was appointed.

(d) Five members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum.

(e) The Commission shall select, by majority vote, one of the members to serve as Vice-Chairman who shall serve as Chairman during meetings of the Commission in the absence of the Chairman.

(f) The Commission shall meet at the call of the Chairman or a majority of its members.

(g) (1) The Chairman of the Commission may be paid at a rate equal to that of Level V of the Executive Schedule (5 U.S.C. 5316).
(2) Except as provided in paragraph (3), the other members of the Commission may each be paid at a rate equal to the daily equivalent of the maximum annual rate of basic pay in effect for grade GS-18 of the General Schedule (5 U.S.C. 5332) for each day, including travel time, during which they are engaged in the actual performance of duties vested in the Commission.

(c) The Commission may procure temporary and intermittent services under section 3109(b) of title 5, United States Code, but at rates for individuals not to exceed the daily equivalent of the maximum annual rate of basic pay payable for GS-18 of the General Schedule.

Sec. 10. The Secretary shall promptly appoint the members of the Commission, as provided in section 5 of this Act, and shall provide staff and support assistance to enable the Commission to meet and organize as soon as practicable thereafter.

Sec. 11. (a)(1) Class I gaming shall be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Indian tribes and shall not be subject to the provisions of this Act.

(2)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) and (C), Indian tribes may engage in, or license and regulate, Class II or Class III gaming activity on Indian lands if the governing body of the Indian tribe adopts an ordinance or resolution to that effect which is approved by the Commission pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) of this section. Licenses are required for each place, facility, or location of Class II or Class III gaming activities.

(B) Subparagraph (A) shall not apply with respect to an Indian tribe if—

(i) a gaming activity is specifically prohibited on Indian lands by Federal law;

or

(ii) such gaming activity is prohibited by the State within which such tribe is located as a matter of State public policy and criminal law.

(C) Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to gaming on Indian lands located within the State of Nevada.

(b)(1) An Indian tribe may engage in, or license and regulate, Class II gaming activity on the Indian lands of such tribe if the governing body of the tribe adopts an ordinance or resolution which is approved by the Chairman.

(2) The Chairman shall approve any tribal ordinance or resolution concerning the conduct, licensing, or regulation of Class II gaming activity on the Indian lands of such tribe if such ordinance or resolution provides that—

(A) except as provided in paragraph (3), the Indian tribe itself shall have the sole proprietary interest and responsibility for the conduct of any gaming activity;

(B) net revenues from any tribal gaming activity are not to be used for purposes other than—

(i) to fund tribal government operations or programs;

(ii) to provide for the general welfare of the Indian tribe and its members;

(iii) to promote tribal economic development;

(iv) to donate to charitable organizations; or

(v) to help fund operations of local government agencies;

Provided, That, if such net revenues are directly or indirectly used for per capita payments to tribal members, those payments are subject to Federal tax.

(C) annual outside independent audits of the gaming activity will be obtained by the Indian tribe and made available to the Commission;

(D) all contracts for supplies, services, or concessions for a contract amount in excess of $25,000 annually, except contracts for professional legal or accounting services, relating to such gaming activity shall be subject to such independent audits; and

(E) the construction and maintenance of the gaming facility, and the operation of that gaming activity, is conducted in a manner which adequately protects the environment and the public health and safety.
(3) A tribal ordinance or resolution may provide for the licensing or regulation of Class II gaming activities owned by individuals or entities other than the Indian tribe, except that the tribal licensing requirements shall be at least as restrictive as those established by State law governing similar gaming within the jurisdiction of the State within which such tribe is located. No individual or entity, other than the tribe, shall be eligible to receive a tribal license to own a Class II gaming activity within the tribe's jurisdiction if such individual or entity would not be eligible to receive a State license to conduct the same activity within the jurisdiction of the State.

(4) Not later than one hundred and sixty days after the submission of any tribal gaming ordinance or resolution, the Chairman shall approve such ordinance or resolution if it meets the requirements of this subsection. Any such ordinance or resolution not acted upon at the end of that one hundred and sixty day period shall be deemed to have been approved by the Chairman.

(c)(1) An Indian tribe may engage in, or license and regulate, Class III gaming activity on the Indian lands of such tribe if the governing body of the tribe adopts an ordinance or resolution which meets the requirements of this subsection and which is approved by the Chairman.

(2) The Commission shall adopt comprehensive gaming regulations for Class III gaming. Such regulations shall be identical to that provided for the same or similar gaming activity by the State within which such Indian gaming activity is to be conducted.

(A) the State where such State has the requisite criminal jurisdiction over Indian reservations pursuant to Public Law 83-280, or as if such criminal penalties were part of the criminal/prohibitory laws of such State.

(4) The Chairman shall approve a tribal ordinance or resolution relating to the conduct of Class III gaming activity and shall issue a license to engage in such activity if the ordinance or resolution meets the requirements of subsection (b) (2) and (3) of this section and conforms to the regulations adopted by the Commission pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(5) Prior to approving a license pursuant to this subsection, the Chairman shall prepare and take into consideration an analysis of the prospects for the proposed gaming activity to operate in a profitable and economically sound manner. The analysis shall, as a minimum, include:

(A) a summary of the capital outlays needed to begin operations and the long-term financing requirements;

(B) the financing method and proof of availability of financing;

(C) the impact of granting a license on both the tribal and nearby non-Indian communities; and

(D) the ability of the licensee to monitor and insure that gaming operations are conducted in a fair and safe manner.

Sec. 12. (a) Subject to the approval of the Chairman, an Indian tribe may enter into a management contract for the operation and management of a Class II or III gaming activity, except that, before approving such contract, the Chairman shall require and obtain the following information:

(3) for a minimum guaranteed payment to the Indian tribe that has preference over the retirement of development and construction costs;

(4) for an agreed ceiling for the repayment of development and construction costs;

(5) that the term of the contract shall not exceed five years; and

(6) for grounds and mechanisms for terminating such contract; Provided, That contract termination shall not require the approval of the Commission.

(e) The Chairman may approve a management contract providing for a fee based upon a percentage of the net revenues of a tribal gaming activity if he determines that such percentage fee is reasonable in light of surrounding circumstances, but in no event shall such fee exceed forty percent of the net revenues.

(d) Not later than one hundred and twenty days after the submission of a contract, the Chairman shall approve or disapprove such contract on its merits. Any such contract not acted upon at the end of such time shall be deemed to have been approved by the Chairman.

(e) The Chairman shall not approve any contract where he determines that:

(2) the management contractor has, or has attempted to, unduly interfere or influence for its gain or advantage any decision or process of tribal government relating to the gaming activity;

(3) the management contractor has deliberately or substantially failed to comply with the terms of the management contract or the tribal gaming ordinance or resolution adopted and approved pursuant to this Act, or

(4) a trustee exercising the skill and diligence that a trustee is commonly held to would not approve the contract.

(f) The Chairman, after notice and hearing, shall have the authority to require appropriate contract modifications or may void any contract if he subsequently determines that any of the provisions of this section have been violated.

(g) No management contract for the operation and management of a Class II and III gaming activity shall transfer or, in any other manner, convey any interest in land or other real property unless clearly specified in writing in said contract.

Sec. 13. (a) As soon as practicable after the organization of the Commission, the Chairman shall notify each Indian tribe or management contractor who, prior to the enactment of this Act, adopted an ordinance or resolution authorizing Class II or III gaming or entered into a management contract, that such ordinance, resolution, or contract must be submitted for his review within sixty days of such notification.

(d)(1) Within one hundred and eighty days after the submission of a management contract pursuant to subsection (a), the Chairman shall subject such contract to the requirements and process of section 12 of this Act.

(2) If he determines, at the end of such period, that such contract and the management contractor meet the requirements of section 12, he shall approve it.

(3) If he determines, at the end of such period, that such contract and the management contractor do not meet the requirements of section 12, he shall provide written notification to the parties to such contract of modifications necessary to come into compliance and the parties shall have not more than one hundred and twenty days to come into compliance.

(4) Where a management contract submitted pursuant to subsection (a) has been previously approved by the Secretary or his representative, said contract shall be deemed in compliance hereof and no further action shall be required.

Sec. 14. (a)(1) The Commission shall have authority to authorize the Chairman to levy and collect appropriate civil fines, not to exceed $10,000 per violation, against an Indian gaming activity or a management contractor engaged in gaming activities regulated by this Act or by regulations adopted by the Commission pursuant to this Act.

(2) The Commission shall, by regulation, provide an opportunity for an appeal and hearing before the Commission on fines levied and collected by the Chairman.

(b)(1) The Chairman shall have power to order temporary closure of Indian gaming activities for substantial violation of the provisions of this Act or regulations adopted by the Commission pursuant to this Act.

The Commission may, by a vote of not less than five of its members, order a permanent closure of the gaming operation after such hearing.

(c) A decision of the Commission to give final approval of a fine levied by the Chairman or to order a permanent closure pursuant to this section shall be appealable to the appropriate Federal District Court pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, title 5, United States Code.

Sec. 15. (a)(1) The Commission may authorize the Chairman to issue subpoenas requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of any evidence that relates to any matter which the Commission is empowered to investigate by this Act.

(2) Such attendance of witnesses and the production of such evidence may be required from any place within the United States at any designated place of hearing within the United States.

(3) If a person issued a subpoena under paragraph (1) refuses to obey such subpoena or is guilty of contumacy, any court of the United States within the judicial district within which the hearing is conducted or within the judicial district within which such person is found or resides or transacts business may, upon application of the Commission, order such person to appear before the Commission to produce evidence or to give testimony relating to the matter under investigation. Any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof.

The Attorney General is authorized to enforce such laws, or assist in the enforcement of such laws, upon evidence of violation as a matter of Federal law, or upon the referral of information by the Commission pursuant to section 16(b) of this Act.

SEC. 17. (a)(1) Not less than three-quarters of the annual budget of the Commission shall be derived from an assessment of not to exceed two and one-half percent of the gross revenues from each Indian gaming activity regulated pursuant to this Act.

(2) The Commission, by a vote of not less than five of its members, shall annually adopt the rate of assessment authorized by this section which shall be uniformly applied to all gaming activities and which shall be payable on a quarterly basis.

(3) Failure to pay the assessment shall, subject to the regulations of the Commission, be grounds for revocation of any approval or license of the Commission required under this Act for the operation of tribal gaming.

(4) To the extent that funds derived from such assessments are not expended or committed at the end of the budget year, such surplus funds shall be credited to each gaming activity on a pro rata basis against the assessment for the succeeding year.

(5) For purposes of this section, gross revenues shall constitute the total wagered monies less any amounts paid out as prizes or paid for prizes awarded.

(b)(1) The Commission, in coordination with the Secretary and in conjunction with the fiscal cycle of the United States, shall adopt an annual budget for the expenses and operation of the Commission.

(2) The budget of the Commission may include a request for appropriations, as authorized by section 18, in an amount not to exceed one-third the amount of funds derived from assessments authorized by subsection (a) for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year for which the appropriation request is made.

(3) The request for appropriations pursuant to section 16 shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary and shall be included as a part of the budget request of the Department of the Interior.

PURPOSE

The purpose of H.R. 1920, by Mr. Udall and others, is to establish Federal standards and regulations for the conduct of gaming activities on Indian reservations.

BACKGROUND

Although Indian tribes have engaged in the operation of gaming activities on their reservations for some time and although some tribes have conducted bingo operations on a regular basis since at least 1974, it is not until recently that such gaming operations have begun to proliferate at a rapid pace. Recent information indicates that at least 80 such operations are currently in existence.

Tribal involvement in the conduct of gaming activities started to increase after the seminal case of Seminole v. Butterworth, 658 F 2d. 310 (1982).

In this case, the 5th Circuit upheld a ruling of the Federal District Court that the Seminole Tribe of Florida could engage in bingo gambling within the reservation free of State licensing and State regulation. While the court found that the State of Florida has criminal and civil jurisdiction over the Seminole reservation pursuant to Public Law 83-280, it found that, pursuant to the Supreme Court's Decision in Bryan v. Itasca County, 426 U.S. 373 (1976), P.L. 83-280 did not confer general regulatory power over Indian tribes.

Therefore, the question of whether or not Florida had the right to license and regulate bingo operations on the Seminole Reservation turned on whether the State law regulating bingo operations was criminal/prohibitory in nature or civil/regulatory. Finding that the operation of bingo games in Florida was not prohibited by the State law as against public policy, but merely regulated, the Court held that the State law was civil/regulatory in nature and, therefore, was not applicable to bingo operations on the Indian reserva-

Whether a certain activity is against the public policy of the State has also determined whether such gambling activity is legal under the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970. This Act prohibits gambling businesses which are in violation of the laws of the State in which they are located. The Federal courts have concluded that gambling activities which are regulated rather than prohibited by State law are not against the public policy of the State and therefore not violative of the Organized Crime Control Act. See: U.S. v. Ferris, 624 F. 2nd 890 (9th Cir. 1980).

Besides the favorable court decisions, it is clear that in these times of Federal budget reductions many tribes which have traditionally relied on Federal funding to conduct their tribal government operations, have found the revenues generated from tribal gaming operations on the reservations to be a welcome source of funds to replace dwindling Federal funds. As the Department of the Interior stated during its testimony on the bill:

Indian reservation gambling provides economic benefit to many of the tribes involved, especially those with no valuable natural resources or other significant sources of income. Tribes have used their bingo income for a variety of purposes relating to the welfare of their members including • • • payment of medical expenses for tribal members • • • fire department equipment and operation, road repairs, and flood control repair.

The proliferation of tribal gaming operations was also encouraged by President Reagan's Indian Policy Statement which encouraged the tribes to reduce their dependence on Federal funds by providing a greater percentage of the cost of their self-government and which pledged to assist tribal governments by removing impediments to tribal self-government. This policy also encouraged private sector involvement and innovative approaches to overcome the legislative and regulatory impediments to economic progress. To comply with this policy and Federal law, the Department of the Interior has approved tribal ordinances and laws providing for tribal regulations of gaming activities on Indian lands and testified during the Committee hearings that, “We wish to permit continuation of Indian bingo as a matter of Federal policy, but recognize that it had to be regulated effectively to avoid the potential law enforcement problems.”

It is precisely such potential law enforcement concerns and especially allegations of criminal infiltration by organized crime which first interested the Committee in the issues facing gaming on Indian lands. On the issue of organized crime, the Committee has not found any conclusive evidence that such infiltration has occurred. The Justice Department, in its testimony on the bill stated that, while it did not claim that Indian gambling operations were presently “mobbed-up”, there was still a potential for such infiltration by organized crime especially after such operations have become successful and have established their credentials and legitimacy.

The conclusion that organized crime has not infiltrated Indian gaming operations is also reflected in the findings of the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals decision in Cabazon Band of Mission Indians and Morongo Band v. Riverside (February 26, 1986) which stated that, in spite of the State's concerns about intrusion by organized crime in California, "There is no evidence whatsoever that organized crime exists on these reservations."

In this recent 1986 Opinion, the State of California had argued that the recent decision of Rice v. Rehner, 463 U.S. 713 (1983) demanded a re-examination of the civil/regulatory-criminal/prohibitory distinction because the Supreme court had rejected what it terms a "substantive-regulatory" distinction in interpreting the intent of a Federal statute which exempted from Indian Country the application of certain Federal laws regulating alcohol. The Supreme Court in Rice held that such statute did give the States concurrent jurisdiction with the tribes over liquor regulations in Indian country.

The 9th Circuit, however, in its 1986 decision, held that the Supreme Court's decision in Rice v. Rehner did not change the legal doctrines governing the legality of Indian gambling on Indian lands. Since P.L. 280 only vested the States with full criminal jurisdiction, and not with civil regulatory power in Indian Country, the question to be decided was still whether the State regulations concerning such gambling operations were criminal/prohibitory or civil/regulatory in nature. The Court held that since these gambling operations were not prohibited by the State public policy, they were only civil/regulatory in nature and therefore not applicable in Indian Country.

The Supreme Court, in Rice v. Rehner, was not adopting a new doctrine by which to measure the extent of State power in Indian Country and was not espousing a new theory on Indian sovereignty. The Court instead was following a long line of legal precedents in attempting to measure the backdrop of Indian sovereignty in a preemption analysis. In the course of such analysis, the Court stated that, "The role of tribal sovereignty in preemption analysis varies with the particular notions of sovereignty developed from historical traditions of tribal independence." The Court included that, when it comes to liquor regulations, Indian sovereignty was not important because the Federal Government had divested the tribes from the power to regulate liquor on the reservation since colonial times. As a matter of fact, the Court concluded that there was an historical tradition of concurrent Federal and State jurisdiction over the use and distribution of alcohol on the reservation since some of the States were required to enact laws prohibiting the sale of liquor in Indian Country as a condition of entry into the United States.

There are vast historical differences in the manner that the United States has treated alcohol and gaming activities in Indian Country. Except for a prohibition against the operation of mechanical devices such as slot machines, the Federal government has never attempted to prohibit or regulate gambling activity within Indian country. In like manner, there is no specific or general Federal law conferring authority on States to regulate gaming activity within Indian Country.

While there has been a history of tribal gaming activity or gaming regulation for a number of years, it has only been in recent years that tribes have begun to develop gaming as an economic enterprise to generate tribal governmental revenue. These tribal gaming activities have brought the Indian and non-Indian communities into conflict.

While Indian tribes have vigorously protested proposed actions to limit or infringe upon their rights to generate revenue to support tribal government and tribal programs, they have recognized that there may be a need to enact Federal legislation to protect these revenue-generating activities from over-reaching on the part of outside interests and from the attentions of criminal elements.

States and non-Indian parties interested in, or affected by, Indian gaming activity have felt threatened by these activities and have sought means to prohibit or restrict these activities. In some cases, they have sought to advance solutions which would subject the tribal activities to the laws of the State.

H.R. 1920, as amended, is an attempt to meet the concerns of all parties while preserving the integrity and rights of tribes to be governed by their own laws and protecting the right of tribes to generate necessary revenue to support tribal government and programs.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENT AND SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

The Committee considered an amendment in the nature of a substitute for purposes of Committee markup. This Substitute, after further amendment, was adopted by the Committee as an amendment to H.R. 1920. The major provisions of the Substitute and its differences from H.R. 1920, as introduced, are discussed in the Explanation section of this report. A section-by-section analysis of the amended bill and a more detailed explanation of its provisions follows:

Section 1

Section 1 cites the Act as the “Indian Gaming Regulatory Act”.

Section 2

Subsection (a) contains various congressional findings relating to the conduct of gaming activities on Indian reservations. Paragraph (1) notes that a number of tribes have engaged in gaming as a means of generating tribal revenues. The record developed by the Committee shows that many tribes, faced with severe cuts in Federal program aid supporting tribal government and tribal programs, and lacking a tax base or other source of governmental revenue, have turned to gaming as a source of such revenue. In this respect, they are not unlike many State governments who have turned to State lotteries or other forms of gaming to supplement their tax revenue.

Paragraph (2) finds that, under existing law, Indian tribes may engage in, or license and regulate, gaming activities on Indian lands where that activity is not prohibited by some specific Federal law and where it is conducted in a State which does not prohibit the gaming activity as a matter of the criminal laws of such State.

Paragraph (3) notes that there is no existing Federal law that requires Federal approval of management contracts relating to tribal gaming activities. Depending upon the provisions of such contract, it might be subject to approval by the Secretary of the Interior either under authority of 25 U.S.C. 81 or, if it involves the lease or encumbrance of Indian lands, under 25 U.S.C. 177 or some relevant provision of chapter 12 of 25 U.S.C. This bill would not affect those requirements, but would be supplemental thereto. Federal court decisions to this effect are Wisconsin Winnebago v. Koberstein, 762 F.2d 613, and U.S. ex rel. Shakopee v. Pan American, No. 4-85-880.

Paragraph (4) states that existing Federal law does not provide clear standards or regulations for the orderly conduct of gaming activities on Indian lands.

Paragraph (5) finds that a principal goal of Federal Indian policy is to promote strong tribal government and tribal self-sufficiency and economic development.

Paragraph (6) finds that revenue derived by a tribe from gaming operations is a legitimate source of funds for tribal government and programs.

Subsection (b) finds that the establishment of Federal standards and a National Indian Gaming Commission is necessary to meet the concerns regarding Indian gaming and to protect gaming activities as a source of tribal revenue.

Section 3

Subsection (a) provides that Class II and III gaming regulated by this Act shall be unlawful on any lands acquired by the Secretary in trust for an Indian tribe after December 4, 1985, if such lands are outside the boundaries of such tribe's reservation.

Subsection (b) provides that subsection (a) shall not be applicable if the tribe involved obtains the consent of certain State and local governing bodies.

Section 4

Section 4 provides that relevant provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, such as section 3402(q) and chapter 35, 26 U.S.C., concerning taxation and the reporting and withholding of taxes relating to the operation of gaming activities shall apply to tribal gaming activities as they apply to State operated gaming activities.

Section 5

Subsection (a) provides for the establishment of a National Indian Gaming Commission as an independent entity within the Department of the Interior.

Subsection (b), paragraph (1) provides that the Commission shall be composed of eight members with one appointed by the Secretary to serve as chairman, one to be selected by the Attorney General, five to be appointed by the Secretary from a list provided by Indian tribes engaged in gaming activities, and one to be appointed by the Secretary to represent State interests.

Paragraph (2) provides that not more than four of the members may be from the same political party.
Paragraph (3) provides for the terms of office of the Commissioners, except for the Chairman who will serve at the pleasure of the Secretary, and provides for staggered terms for the first panel of members.

Paragraph (4) prohibits any person who has been convicted of a felony or gaming offense, has any management responsibility for a gaming activity regulated under the Act, or has a financial or other interest in a management contract from being appointed to, or continue service on, the Commission.

Paragraph (5) authorizes removal of members of the Commission, except for the Chairman, by a majority vote of the rest of the members for good cause subject to the approval of the Secretary or, in the case of the member selected by the Attorney General, his approval.

Subsection (c) provides for the filling of vacancies on the Commission.

Subsection (d) provides that five members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum.

Subsection (e) provides for the selection of a Vice-Chairman by the Commission.

Subsection (f) provides that the Commission shall meet at the call of the Chairman or a majority of the members of the Commission.

Subsection (g) provides for the payment of the members of the Commission and reimbursement for travel, subsistence and other necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 6

Subsection (a) gives the Chairman exclusive power to approve tribal ordinances relating to Class II gaming, approve management contracts for Class II and III gaming, and to select, appoint, and supervise Commission staff.

Subsection (b) gives the Chairman power, subject to the approval of the Commission, to appoint a General Counsel, promulgate regulatory schemes for Class III gaming, and to issue orders of temporary closures of gaming activities.

Subsection (c) gives the Chairman power, subject to appeal to the Commission, to approve or disapprove Class III ordinances, resolutions or licenses and to levy and collect civil fines as provided by the Commission.

Subsection (d) provides that the Chairman shall have such other powers as may be delegated by the Commission.

Section 7

Subsection (a) provides that the Commission shall have the power, not subject to delegation, to approve the annual budget of the Commission, to adopt regulations for assessment and collection of civil fines, to adopt the annual assessments as provided in section 17 upon an affirmative vote of not less than five members, to authorize the Chairman to issue subpoenas by an affirmative vote of not less than five members, and by an affirmative vote of not less than five members and after a full hearing, to make permanent a temporary order of the Chairman for closure of a regulated gaming activity. It is the intent of the Committee that tribes or op-operators of tribal gaming activities subject to a permanent order of closure, in addition to any appeal rights, shall have the opportunity to reestablish their gaming activity after meeting all compliance requirements of the commission.

Subsection (b) sets out numerous general powers of the Commission necessary for the implementation of the Act and its responsibilities.

Section 8

Subsection (a) authorizes the Chairman, with the approval of the Commission, to appoint a General Counsel with a background in Indian affairs and establishes a maximum rate of pay for such position.

Subsection (b) provides that the Chairman may appoint other authorized staff of the Commission without regard to laws governing appointments in the competitive service and without regard to the pay provisions of title 5, U.S.C., except that no one so appointed could be paid in excess of the rate of pay established for a GS-17.

Subsection (c) authorizes the Commission to procure temporary and intermittent services as provided in section 3109(b) of title 5, U.S.C.

Subsection (d) authorizes, at the request of the Chairman, other Federal agencies to detail personnel to the Commission unless otherwise prohibited by law.

Subsection (e) provides that the Secretary or the Administrator of GSA shall provide administrative support services to the Commission on a reimbursable basis.

Section 9

Section 9 authorizes the Commission to request, and heads of Federal agencies or departments to provide, information necessary to enable it to carry out this act, if not otherwise prohibited by law.

Section 10

Section 10 directs the Secretary to appoint the members of the Commission as soon as practicable and to provide interim staff and support assistance to the Commission.

Section 11

Subsection (a), paragraph (1) provides that class I gaming, defined in section 19 as social and traditional Indian gaming, shall remain in the exclusive jurisdiction of Indian tribes and shall not be subject to this Act. As with most cultures, most Indian tribes engaged in traditional gambling activities. The "stick" or "bone" game, with variations, was and is played among many Indian tribes, usually in conjunction with tribal ceremonies or feasts. Wagering on horse races or athletic contests, such as Lacrosse, was a common occurrence. Also, Indians engage in social, non-commercial gaming like poker in common with the rest of the Nation. It is these kind of activities which would not be covered under this legislation.

Paragraph (2)(A) provides that, except as limited in subparagraphs (B) and (C), Indian tribes may engage in, or license and regulate, Class II and III gaming on Indian lands if a tribal ordinance or resolution to that effect is approved pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) of this section. The subparagraph further provides that any licenses required under the Act would be required for each place, facility, or location. It is the intent of the subparagraph that a tribal ordinance not be approved which provides a general, blanket authorization of a gaming activity.

Subparagraph (B) provides that gaming under subparagraph (A) would not be legal if (1) the gaming activity is specifically prohibited by Federal law or (2) it is prohibited by the State involved as a matter of public policy and criminal law. The only existing specific Federal law prohibiting gaming activity on Indian lands is found in section 1175 of title 15, United States Code, prohibiting gambling device within Indian country. It is not the Committee's intent that general Federal laws limiting gaming activity be applicable to tribal gaming activity meeting the test of the second criterion of subparagraph (b).

The second limitation contained in subparagraph (b) is a recognition of existing law on gaming on Indian reservations as articulated in the cases of Seminole Tribe of Florida v. Butterworth, 658 F.2d 310 (5th Cir. 1981) and Barona Group of Capitan Grande Band, etc. v. Duffy, 694 F.2d 1185 (9th Cir. 1982). The Barona case was reconfirmed by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in its February 25, 1986, decision in Cabazon Band of Mission Indians v. County of Riverside et al., No. 84-6635. These cases, and several lower court cases, have held that where a State permits the operation of, and general public participation in, gaming activities, a tribe within that State may, as a matter of tribal and Federal law, engage in that activity free of State licensing and regulatory laws.

Subparagraph (C) provides that subparagraph (A) shall not apply to gaming on Indian lands within the State of Nevada. The effect of this provision is to leave the State of Nevada and the tribes where existing laws finds them. It is the intent that the provisions of H.R. 1920 not affect, in any way, what the existing law may be.

Subsection (b), paragraph (1) provides that an Indian tribe may engage in, or license and regulate, Class II gaming (defined in section 19 as including bingo and related games) if a tribal ordinance or resolution is approved by the Chairman of the Commission.

Paragraph (2) provides that the Chairman must approve such ordinance if it meets the minimum standards set out in the paragraph. Subparagraph (A) provides that the tribe, except as provided in paragraph (3), must have the sole proprietary interest and responsibility for conduct of the gaming activity. This is not meant to preclude the employment, by contract or otherwise, of non-tribal persons or entities to manage or operate the tribal enterprise.

Subparagraph (B) provides that net tribal revenues from the gaming activity may only be used to fund tribal government operations or programs; provide for the general welfare of its members; promote tribal economic development; denote to charitable organizations; or to help fund local government agencies. It further states that, if the funds are used to make per capita payments to tribal members, such payments will be subject to Federal taxation. It is not intended that this be the case if any of such revenue is taken in trust by the United States, in which case the provisions of the Act of August 2, 1983 (97 Stat. 365) would be applicable.
Subparagraph (C) requires that outside, independent audits be conducted annually on the gaming activity and be made available to the Commission.

Subparagraph (D) provides that all contracts for supplies, services, or concessions in excess of $25,000, except for legal or accounting services, be subject to such audits if related to the gaming activity. This language is to insure that ancillary services related to a gaming activity are subject to open audits as the Committee is advised that criminal elements often target these activities for infiltration.

Subparagraph (E) provides that the tribal ordinance shall provide that the gaming activity will be conducted in a way which would protect the environment and the public health and safety. It is not intended by this provision that the tribal gaming activity be subject to general Federal laws relating to the environment unless it would be so subject under existing law.

Paragraph (3) provides that a tribal ordinance or resolution may provide for the licensing and regulation of individuals and entities other than the tribe on the reservation. However, the effect of the ordinance must be that any person or entity eligible for a tribal license would be eligible for a State license if they applied under State law and State jurisdiction. In addition, the ordinance must establish a tribal regulatory scheme for such non-tribal gaming activities which is no less stringent than that established by the State for gaming operations within its jurisdiction.

Paragraph (4) provides that the Chairman shall approve, within 160 days of submission, the tribal ordinance if it meets the minimum requirements of the subsection and, if he has not acted within such time, the ordinance shall be deemed approved.

Subsection (c) provides for the regulation of tribal Class III gaming (defined in section 19 as all forms of gaming other than Class I and II). Paragraph (1) provides that tribes may engage in, or license and regulate, Class III gaming if authorized by a tribal ordinance meeting the requirements of this subsection and approved by the Chairman.

Paragraph (2) provides that the Commission shall adopt comprehensive gaming regulations for Class III gaming which are to be identical to those provided for the same or similar gaming activity by the State in which the gaming is to be conducted. It is not the Committee's intent that all State law relating to gaming activity be incorporated into the Commission's regulatory scheme, only those which deal with the regulation of the conduct of ongoing games.

Paragraph (3) provides that, where there are criminal penalties attached to the civil/regulatory scheme, violations of those penal provisions can be enforced by the State, where the State has the necessary criminal jurisdiction under Public Law 83-280, or by the United States under the Assimilative Crimes Act (18 U.S.C. 13), as if such criminal penalties were a part of the criminal/prohibitory laws of the State.

As noted by the Supreme Court in the case of McClanahan v. Arizona State Tax Commission, 411 U.S. 164 (1973), "State laws generally are not applicable to tribal Indians on an Indian reservation except where Congress has expressly provided that State laws shall apply". By P.L. 82-280, Congress specifically transferred certain criminal and civil jurisdiction over Indians in Indian country to certain named States and authorized other States, under certain circumstances, to assume such jurisdiction. It is clear that States having been conferred or having assumed jurisdiction under P.L.
280 have full criminal jurisdiction over Indians within Indian country. However, any State civil jurisdiction deriving from P.L. 280 has been narrowly construed by the decision of the Supreme Court in the Case of Bryan v. Itasca County. 426 U.S. 373 (1976). The Court noted that the primary intent of the civil law provision of P.L. 280 was to grant State jurisdiction over private civil litigation involving Indians in State courts and not the full panoply of State civil/regulatory law. The court stated:

* * * nothing in (P.L. 280's) legislative history remotely suggests that Congress meant the Act's extension of civil jurisdiction to the States should result in the undermining or destruction of such tribal governments as did exist and a conversion of the affected tribes into little more than "private, voluntary organizations," United States v. Ma-zurie, 419 U.S. 544 (1975)—a possible result if tribal governments and reservation Indians were subordinated to the full panoply of civil regulatory powers, including taxation, of State and local governments.

In upholding the power of Indian tribes, as a matter of tribal and Federal law, to engage in or license and regulate gaming on Indian lands, the Federal courts have based their holdings on the Court's decision in the Bryan case. Seminole Tribe v. Butterworth; Barona
v. Duffy; Cabazon v. Riverside, supra. The court's have held that, where a State permits the conduct of, and general public participation in, a gaming activity as a matter of State civil/regulatory law, Indian tribes within such State have a right go engage in, or license and regulate, such gaming activity on Indian lands free of State licen to and regulatory law. This is true even where criminal penalties may be attached to the regulatory laws. As noted in the Seminole case:

Although inclusion of penal sanctions makes it tempting at first glance to classify the statute as prohibitory, the statute cannot be automatically classified as such. A sim-plictic rule depending on whether the statute includes penal sanctions could result in the conversion of every regulatory statute into a prohibitory one. * * * The classification of the statute is more complex, and requires a consideration of the public policy of the state on the issue of bingo and the intent of the legislature in enacting the bingo statute.

The same limiting rationale would be true in non-P.L. 280 States where the United States would attempt to enforce State law within Indian country under the Assimilative Crimes Act or other general Federal statute. Paragraph (2) requires the Commission to adopt and apply to tribal Class III gaming the regulatory aspects of the State laws on gaming. Concerns were expressed to the Committee about the enforceability of any penal sanctions attached to those regulatory provisions. Paragraph (3) would permit the States or the United States, as appropriate, to enforce those criminal sanctions as if they were part of the criminal/prohibitory laws of the State.

Paragraph (4) provides that the Chairman shall approve an ordinance or resolution on Class III gaming and shall issue a license if the ordinance or resolution meets the minimum standards imposed on Class II gaming in subsection (b) and conforms to the regulations adopted by the Commission pursuant to paragraph (2).

Paragraph (5) provides that, prior to approving a Class III license, the Chairman shall make an analysis of the prospects for the proposed gaming activity as a sound economic enterprise. Included in such analysis would be a consideration of the financial foundation of the proposal, the impact of granting the license on tribal and near-by non-Indian communities, and the ability of the licensee to operate in a fair and safe manner. It is not the Committee’s intent that this analysis be a cause for denial of a license, but a means of assisting the tribes in developing and implementing a profitable, safe source of tribal revenue.

Section 12

Subsection (a) provides that, subject to the Chairman’s approval, an Indian tribe may enter into a management contract for the operation of a Class II or III gaming activity. It requires that, before approving such contract, the Chairman require and obtain detailed background and financial data on persons or entities associated with the management contractor.

Subsection (b) provides that any management contract entered into shall make specific provision that (1) adequate accounting procedures be maintained and verifiable financial reports be prepared by or submitted to the tribal governing body on a monthly basis; (2) appropriate tribal officials be guaranteed reasonable access to the daily operations of the gaming activity and have the right to verify daily income; (3) a minimum guaranteed payment to the tribe has preference over retirement of development and construction costs; (4) an agreed ceiling for the repayment of such costs; (5) a maximum contract term of five years; and (6) grounds and mechanisms for terminating the contract, such termination not to require the approval of the Chairman.

Subsection (c) permits the Chairman to approve a contract with a fee based upon a percentage of the net revenues, but such percentage fee may not exceed forty percent.

Subsection (d) provides that the Chairman must approve or disapprove the contract on its merits within 120 days or, at the end of such period, the contract will be deemed approved.

Subsection (e) provides that the Chairman shall disapprove a contract where he determines that (1) a person listed in paragraph (a)(1) is an elected member of the tribal governing body, has been or subsequently is convicted of a felony or gaming offense, has knowingly provided materially false information to the Commission or tribes, or is of a general disreputable character; (2) the management contractor has or attempts to interfere or influence tribal government; (3) the management contractor has deliberately or substantially failed to comply with the contract terms or the tribal ordinance; or (4) a trustee exercising normal skill and diligence would not approve such contract.
Subsection (f) permits the Chairman, after notice and hearing, to require appropriate contract modification or to void such contract if he determines that violations of this section have occurred.

Subsection (g) provides that no management contract shall transfer or, in any manner, convey any interest in land or other real property unless specifically provided in the contract. It is not the Committee’s intent to authorize or permit the conveyance or encumbrance of trust or restricted Indian property through such contract without compliance with any existing Federal law regulating such property.

Section 13

Subsection (a) provides that, as soon as possible after organization of the Commission, the Chairman shall notify any tribe or management contractor who, prior to enactment of this legislation, adopted a tribal ordinance or entered into a contract on Class II or III gaming that such ordinance or contract must be submitted for his review within 60 days.

Subsection (b) provides that the Chairman, within 90 days after submission of a Class II ordinance under subsection (a), shall approve it if it conforms to section 11(b). If he determines that it does not, he shall advise the tribe of necessary modification and the tribe will have 120 days to come into compliance by making the necessary modifications.

Subsection (c) provides that the Chairman, within 90 days after adopting a Class III regulatory scheme by the Commission governing the gaming activity involved in a Class III ordinance submitted pursuant to subsection (a), shall review the ordinance to determine if it conforms to such regulatory scheme and meets the requirements of section 11(b). If he does, he shall approve the ordinance and issue the necessary license. If he determines it does not, he shall advise the tribe of necessary modification and the tribe shall have 120 days to come into compliance.

Subsection (d) provides that the Chairman, within 120 days after submission of a management contract pursuant to subsection (a), shall subject such contract to the requirements and process of section 12. If he determines that the contract and the management contractor meet the requirements of section 12, he shall approve the contract. If he determines that they do not, he shall provide notice to the tribe and to the contractor of necessary modifications and they shall have 120 days to come into compliance. The subsection also provides that, where the Secretary of the Interior or his representative has previously approved a contract submitted pursuant to subsection (a), such contract shall be deemed in compliance with the provisions of the Act and no further action shall be required. While the Committee intends that contracts previously approved by the Secretary shall be deemed in compliance with this Act, it is not intended that this would work to cure any legal insufficiency in such contract or approval under any other applicable tribal or Federal law.

Section 13 is a recognition by the Committee that there are numerous legal Indian gaming operations now being conducted on Indian lands and that those operations should be brought into compliance with the provisions of this law in a deliberate manner. It is not intended that those operations be affected by the provisions of this Act prior to the implementation of section 13.

Section 14

Subsection (a) provides that the Commission shall have authority to authorize the Chairman to levy and collect civil fines, not exceeding $10,000 per violation, against Indian gaming activities or management contractors for violations of the provisions of this Act or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act. It also provides that parties against whom the Chairman levies a fine shall have an opportunity for an appeal and hearing before the Commission.

Subsection (b) provides that the Chairman shall have power to temporarily close a gaming activity covered by this Act for substantial violation of the Act or regulations adopted by the Commission. The Indian tribe or contractor involved shall have a right to a hearing, within 30 days after an order of temporary closure, before the Commission to determine if the order should be made permanent. The Commission may order permanent closure after such hearing only upon an affirmative vote of not less than five of its members.

Subsection (c) provides that final decisions of the Commission under subsection (a) and (b) shall be appealable to the appropriate Federal district court under the Administrative Procedures Act of title 5, United States Code.

Section 15

Subsection (a), paragraph (1) provides that the Commission may authorize the Chairman to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence that relates to matters which the Commission is empowered to investigate.

Paragraph (2) provides that witnesses and evidence may be required from any place in the United States to any place of hearing.

Paragraph (3) provides that, upon application by the Commission, appropriate Federal courts may enforce subpoenas of the Commission by holding defaulting parties in contempt of court.

Paragraph (4) provides that Commission subpoenas shall be served in the same manner as provided in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedures for Federal district courts.

Paragraph (5) provides that all process of any court to which application is made under this section may be served in the judicial district where the person required to be served resides or is found.

Subsection (b) provides that no person may refuse to comply with a subpoena on the grounds that any testimony given or evidence produced might tend to incriminate him, but no such person shall be subject to prosecution or any penalty or forfeiture by reason of being compelled to testify or produce evidence. However, the person would not be immune from prosecution and punishment for perjury in so testifying.

Section 16

Subsection (a) provides that, except as provided in subsection (b), the Commission shall keep confidential information received pursuant to this Act pursuant to section 552(b)(4) and (7) of title 5, U.S.C.
Subsection (b) provides that information covered by subsection (a) may be provided by the Commission to appropriate law enforcement officials when it indicates a violation of Federal, State or tribal criminal statutes or ordinances.

Subsection (c) provides that the Attorney General is authorized to investigate activities associated with gaming under this Act which might be a violation of Federal laws. The Attorney General is authorized to enforce or assist in the enforcement of such laws upon evidence of a violation as a matter of Federal law or upon referral of information from the Commission under subsection (b). This subsection is meant merely as a reaffirmation of the existing responsibility of the Attorney General to investigate and prosecute crimes within Indian country under existing Federal law.

Section 17

Subsection (a), paragraph (1) provides that not less than three-quarters of the Commission’s annual budget shall be derived from assessments of Indian gaming activity of not to exceed two and one-half percent of gross revenues.

Paragraph (2) provides that the Commission, by an affirmative vote of not less than five of its members, shall annually adopt the rate of assessment which shall be uniformly applied to all gaming activities and payable on a quarterly basis.

Paragraph (3) provides that failure to pay the assessment shall be grounds for revocation of any approval or license of the Commission required for the operation of a gaming activity.

Paragraph (4) provides that funds assessed in one year and not expended shall be carried over and credited on a pro rate basis against assessments for the succeeding year.

Paragraph (5) defines gross revenue, for purposes of this section, as total wagered monies less amounts paid out as prizes.

Subsection (b), paragraph (a) provides that the Commission, in coordination with the Secretary of the Interior and in conjunction with the Federal fiscal cycle, shall annually adopt the budget for the Commission.

Paragraph (2) provides that the Commission may request Federal appropriations, as provided in section 18, which not exceed more than one-third of the total assessment authorized and collected in the preceding fiscal year.

Paragraph (3) provides that the Commission’s appropriation request shall be subject to the Secretary’s approval and included in the budget request of the Department of the Interior.

Section 18

Subsection (a) provides that, subject to section 17, there is authorized to be appropriated for the expenses of the Commission such sums as may be necessary.

Subsection (b) provides that, notwithstanding section 17, there is authorized to be appropriated not to exceed $2,000,000 to fund the Commission in the first fiscal year after enactment.

Paragraph (3) provides that failure to pay the assessment shall be grounds for revocation of any approval or license of the Commission required for the operation of a gaming activity.
Section 18

Subsection (a) provides that, subject to section 17, there is authorized to be appropriated for the expenses of the Commission such sums as may be necessary.

Subsection (b) provides that, notwithstanding section 17, there is authorized to be appropriated not to exceed $2,000,000 to fund the Commission in the first fiscal year after enactment.

Section 19

Section 19 contains definitions of various terms used in the Act.

Section 20

Section 20 provides that, consistent with the provisions of the Act, section 1307 of title 18, United States Code, shall apply to tribal gaming activities. It is intended that gaming activities of an Indian tribe, whether operated directly by the tribe or under any management contract, would be treated the same as a State-owned gaming activity.

Section 21

Section 21 contains a severance clause providing that the invalidation of any provision of the Act shall not operate to invalidate the remaining provisions.

EXPLANATION

As introduced, H.R. 1920 established minimum Federal standards for the conduct of gaming activities on Indian lands. The bill provided that a tribunal ordinance or resolution, meeting those minimum standards, was subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. In addition, the bill required that management contracts entered into by Indian tribes for the operation of tribal gaming activities would be subject to Secretarial approval under stringent criteria governing elements of such contract and the contracting entity.

Indian tribes initially opposed the legislation as an unwarranted intrusion upon tribal governmental sovereignty and an impairment of legal rights confirmed through extensive litigation in the Federal courts. Tribal support did develop on the legislation, primarily because of Indian concern about growing over-reaching by outside management contractors and because of concerns being expressed about the possibility of infiltration of the games by elements or organized crime.

On the other side, opposition to the bill was advanced by some State governmental representatives and certain private interest groups because of their concern about the impact of Indian gaming activity not being subject to the regulatory and enforcement laws of the States. This opposition was grounded in the belief that gaming activities of Indian tribal governments operated for the purpose of generating tribal governmental revenue.

After full Committee hearings on the legislation and the receipt of extensive correspondence from concerned parties, the Committee concluded that many of the concerns expressed on both sides of the issue had merit and warranted consideration in the amendatory process. At the direction of the Chairman, an amendment in the nature of a substitute was developed for Committee mark-up purposes. The Substitute sought to strike a middle ground between the opposing viewpoints. This Substitute, after further amendments, was ordered reported favorably by the Committee.

The Substitute made basic changes in the bill as introduced. The Substitute provides for the establishment of a National Indian Gaming Commission as an independent entity within the Department of the Interior and this commission is vested with the implementation of the Act instead of the Secretary of the Interior. Funding for the Commission will come primarily from assessments of tribal gaming activities.

The Substitute divides gaming activities into three classes: Class I including traditional Indian gaming and social gaming; Class II including bingo and related gaming; and Class III including all other forms of gaming.

Each class is treated differently in the Substitute. Class I is left to the exclusive jurisdiction of the tribes. Class II is generally left to the regulatory authority of the tribes, but with the requirement that a tribunal ordinance or resolution be approved by the Chairman of the Commission if it meets the minimum standards set out in the bill. In order to meet the concerns of the States and other non-Indian parties, Class III gaming, while required to meet the same minimum standards of Class III, would also be subject to detailed regulation by the Commission which is required to adopt a regulatory scheme identical to that of the State in which such activity is conducted.

Finally, the substitute retains the requirements that management contracts be reviewed and approved, but the approval is vested in the Chairman of the Commission. The approval criteria for such contracts have been refined and tightened.

A more detailed explanation of the bill’s provisions, as amended is contained in the section-by-section analysis of this report.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY AND OVERSIGHT STATEMENT

H.R. 1920, introduced on April 2, 1985, by Representative Udall for himself and Representatives McCain, Richardson, Bates, Snowe, Seiberling, and McKernan, is similar to H.R. 4566 introduced by Mr. Udall in the 98th Congress. The Committee held hearings in the 98th Congress on H.R. 4566 on June 19, 1984.

In the 99th Congress, the Committee held three days of hearings on H.R. 1920 and related bills, H.R. 2420, H.R. 3130, H.R. 3745, and H.R. 3752. Hearings were held in Washington, D.C., on June 25, 1985; in San Diego, California, on September 13, 1985; and in Washington, D.C., on November 14, 1985. During these hearings, the Committee took oral testimony from the Departments of the Interior and Justice and from forty Indian and non-Indian public witnesses. In addition, the Committee received numerous statements submitted for the record and extensive correspondence on the subject of the legislation.

The Committee marked up H.R. 1920 on December 4 and 11, 1985. After extensive debate and amendments, the Committee ordered the bill reported on December 11, 1985, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute.

Similar legislation, S. 902, is pending before the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, by voice vote on December 11, 1985, ordered H.R. 1920 favorably reported to the House with an amendment.

COST AND BUDGET ACT COMPLIANCE

The enactment of H.R. 1920 could result in a cost to the United States of up to $2,000,000 in the first fiscal year after enactment. Thereafter, the cost to the United States would be an indeterminate amount based upon a cost-sharing formula in the bill with Indian tribes with the tribes bearing 75% of the cost. The analysis of the Congressional Budget Office follows:

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

3. Bill status: As amended and ordered reported by the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs on December 11, 1985.
4. Bill purpose: This bill establishes the National Indian Gaming commission and the criteria by which it is to regulate Indian gaming. It also delineates the composition, compensation, and duties of the commission.
5. Estimated cost to the Federal Government:

The costs of this bill fall within budget function 450.

Basis of estimate: The bill specifies that the commission shall receive at least 75 percent of its funding through assessments on gross gaming revenues, with the remaining funding to be appropriated. Gross gaming revenues are defined as the difference between total revenues and payouts. The assessment is limited to no more than 2.5 percent of gross revenues. The Bureau of Indian Affairs currently estimates annual gross revenues to be about $60 million. This implies annual assessments of up to $1.5 million and a maximum annual commission budget of $2 million, up to $0.5 million of which may be appropriated.

The estimate of the costs of H.R. 1920 is based upon these figures, which assume that gross revenues remain constant over time. Any change in gross revenues would be reflected in the annual funding of the commission, which would increase or decrease accordingly, with the limitation that, in the first fiscal year following the enactment of this bill, total appropriations shall not exceed $2 million. CBO estimates that gross revenues would have to increase tenfold in order for the commission to reach the $10 million to $15 million annual funding for gaming commissions in Nevada and New Jersey.

6. Estimated cost to State and local governments: None.
7. Estimate comparison: None.
8. Previous CBO estimate: None.
10. Estimate approved by: James L. Blum, Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

INFLATIONARY IMPACT STATEMENT

Enactment of H.R. 1920 would have only a minimal inflationary impact.

DEPARTMENTAL REPORT

Reports were requested from the Department of the Interior and the Department of Justice on H.R. 1920 on October 15, 1985. To date, no report has been received by the Committee from either Department.
SUPPLEMENTAL VIEWS OF MR. UDALL

I feel compelled to respond to the dissenting views filed on this legislation. I feel compelled to do so as Chairman of the Committee which has jurisdiction over most Indian matters and as a member of Congress who has long fought and worked to better the condition of our Indian citizens and to protect their rights against an overwhelming majority.

The Constitution of the United States establishes the relations of this Nation with the Indian tribes. Under the Constitution, Congress has plenary power over Indian affairs and this responsibility has been vested by the House with this Committee.

In carrying out its plenary power over Indian affairs, the second act of the 1st Congress was to reenact the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 which provided in Article 3:

* * * The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their land and property shall never be taken from them without their consent; and in their property, rights, and liberty, they shall never be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity shall from time to time be made, for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them.

High sounding words, indeed! A cursory review of our treatment of Indian tribes will reveal most readily that the promise and commitment has been observed more in the breach than in the fulfillment. The “utmost good faith” has not been observed.

The Northwest Ordinance statute has not been repealed and it remains the law of this Land. I will do my utmost to honor the commitment and promise that it makes to the Indian tribes and our Indian citizens.

It may seem strange that I would raise a point of National honor and commitment in the context of legislation dealing with gambling. Gambling has always had overtones of immorality. I, personally, do not view gaming activities as an appropriate method of generating governmental revenues. That is not the issue here, however. Gambling, in one form or another, is now legal in almost all of the States. More and more States are turning, directly or indirectly, to gambling as a revenue source to supplement tax revenue. That is understandable in an era of high Federal budget deficits and Gramm-Rudman.

It is even more understandable that Indian tribes would turn to that source of revenue. They have little, if any, tax base. They are almost solely reliant upon Federal funds and programs to provide even the most basic needs. Reservation Indians receive little support form State governments. As noted in the Supreme Court decision of U.S. v. Kagama, the Indians, "* * * owe no allegiance to the States, and receive from them no protection * * *"

No segment of our population has been more devastated by reductions in Federal programs. Gramm-Rudman, for the tribes, is not a matter of cutting the fat or even losing a little flesh. For them, it is literally a matter of life and death. It is little wonder that they have so desperately turned to gaming for revenue. It is hard to understand those who would deny them this small source of hope.

The Federal courts, interpreting existing Federal-Indian law, have held that Indian tribes may engage in gaming activities free of State law where the States permits gaming as a matter of its civil laws. The dissent suggests that this is unfair and notes the intent to offer an amendment to subject tribal government to State jurisdiction, an infringement upon existing Indian rights. They assert that this is necessary because, "We need a level playing field * * *"

I, too, have been seeking a level playing field—a level playing field for the Indian tribes and their members:

- a level playing field in economic conditions, when nearly 40% of Indian families are below the income poverty line.
- a level playing field in housing, when nearly 50% of Indian housing is substandard.
- a level playing field in employment opportunities, when 50% of Indians 16 years and older are unemployed.
- a level playing field in health, when the per capita expenditure for Indians in 1985 was $660 compared with $1,200 for the rest of the Nation.

The truth is that, in every circumstance, Indian tribes and people have been playing in the bottom of a pit in the most affluent nation in the world.

I can have little sympathy for the plea of the dissent that their States and their affluent non-Indian constituents be given a level playing field in gaming activities when these kinds of conditions exist among our Indian citizens. The Indians, desperate for some source of revenue in the face of our budget-cutting mania, have found a small source of relief in gaming. Even this is to be taken from them.

In an attempt to protect the rights of Indian tribes, as is my duty under the Northwest Ordinance and, yet, to deal with the many legitimate concerns of States and non-Indian parties, I bring to the floor of the House a compromise bill. The compromises that I have made to deal with the concerns of the dissenters and others are not willing supported by the Indian tribes. Many tribes feel that these compromises of their rights unduly and unnecessarily intrude upon their right of self-government. Most, very reluctantly, accept the compromises in order to achieve the protections of the legislation and only in the context of the Federal-Indian relationship.

In good faith to the Indians, I can offer no more compromise nor accept any further abrogation of the rights they have bargained for in hundreds of treaties ceding lands to this Nation. If an amendment is adopted to subject Indian tribes and their governments to State jurisdiction, I can no longer support this legislation and would feel compelled to oppose its enactment.
From my perspective as Chairman of the Committee to whom the House has entrusted its Constitutional responsibility for Indian tribes, the difference that I have with the dissent transcends the rather narrow and secondary issue of Indian gambling. It goes to the whole nature of our obligations and commitments to the Indian tribes and, ultimately, to the foundation of our form of government in which the rights of the minority are to be protected from the convenience of the majority. Felix S. Cohen, the author of the Handbook of Federal Indian Law and an early civil libertarian stated:

Like the miner's canary, the Indian marks the shifts from fresh air to poison gas in our political atmosphere; and our treatment of Indians, even more than our treatment of other minorities, reflects the rise and fall in our democratic faith."

In a “Dear Colleague” letter to members of my Committee before Committee markup, I cited another part of the Supreme Court decision in U.S. v. Kagama: “Because of local ill-feeling, the people of the States where (Indians) are found are often their deadliest enemies.” Conferring State jurisdiction over tribal governments and their gaming activities would not insure a "level playing field", but would guarantee that Indian tribes could not gamble at all.

I urge the members of my Committee and the members of the House to reject the position and amendment proposed by the dissent.

Morris K. Udall.
We have serious concerns about the method proposed by the Committee for regulating Class III gambling on Indian lands. It makes little sense to have the National Indian Gaming Commission regulate Class III gaming activity when the states already have in place the appropriate rules and enforcement mechanisms for doing so. We do not believe that the National Commission will have the appropriate funding or manpower to adopt and enforce regulations for all forms of Class III gambling that would take place on Indian lands.

Even though the Commission would be required to adopt identical state regulations, the committee makes it clear that it does not intend "that all state laws relating to gaming activity be incorporated into the Commission's regulatory scheme * * *." Thus, gambling on Indian lands would not be subject to the same rules as gambling on non-Indian lands. There is no justification for treating gaming activity on Indian lands more favorably than the same activity taking place off Indian land. We need a level playing field, and providing two sets of rules for gambling within a state is clearly unfair.

The problems faced by the Commission in adopting and enforcing identical state regulations would be enormous. Potentially, the Commission would have under its responsibility 50 different sets of regulations for each type of gaming activity. The task of monitoring each set of rules, for each type of gambling, in each state, is tremendous. It is extremely doubtful that any commission would be able to adequately enforce these regulations.

While the Committee has agreed to permit the states to have some jurisdiction over gambling on Indian lands in the few states covered by P.L. 280, this jurisdiction is extremely limited. As the report notes, while the states have full criminal jurisdiction over Indians within Indian country under P.L. 280, any state civil jurisdiction in these states has been narrowly construed by the courts.

At a time when we are continuing to face large budget deficits and we are seeing a number of worthwhile federal programs cut to the bone, it is incredible that we would consider vesting this National Indian Gaming Commission with such a large task as regulating all Class III gambling on Indian lands. We do not have the money available to fully fund the activities the Commission would be required to undertake in this legislation. We also would be duplicating work that is currently being done by the states in this same area.

The states are well-versed in all the methods that can be used to evade regulations and corrupt gambling. They know how animals can be drugged, games rigged, machinery tampered with, and crimes committed. They have the staff, regulatory apparatus, and expertise to prevent such abuses from creeping into Indian gambling. They also have experience in regulating on Indian lands as the states and tribes have had concurrent jurisdiction over alcohol sales on Indian lands since 1953.

To insure that the states will be able to continue their role in regulating gambling activities, an amendment will be offered on the House floor to place Class III gambling on Indian lands under state jurisdiction. By doing this, we will guarantee that the states have the responsibility for regulating all gambling within their borders, whether it takes place on Indian land, or off Indian land.

DISSENTING VIEWS

H.R. 1920 is unacceptable for three major reasons.

First, the primary reason for conducting gambling on Indian reservations is to generate revenue from non-Indians. The governing of certain types of social activities or businesses has been usually left entirely to the states. The management or the rules under which they operate for the sale of liquor, operation of bars and taverns, or even in rare cases, legalized prostitution has been traditionally left to the states and in our opinion that is where it should remain. The Federal Government should not be in the business of establishing and operating a National Indian Gambling Commission. The powers to control Class III Gambling should remain with the States.

The second reason for opposing this bill is of major importance. Who will monitor gambling operations such as horse racing, dog racing, poker tables, slot machines, Jai-Lai games, etc.? These games must be operated in a fair manner and on a continuous basis. Also, if animals are involved, assurances must be made to insure that all safety and health rules and regulations are fully enforced. In our opinion, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior does not have the personnel, the training, or the funding to insure the careful monitoring and control of Indian gaming operations. The type of control requires highly trained investigative personnel and a sophisticated law enforcement organization to back them up. Organized crime has repeatedly sought areas where large amounts of cash are involved. To insure basic protections against any intrusion of organized crime requires much more than the BIA has or could provide in the near future.

The third and final major problem associated with Indian gambling is the cost and operation of a National Indian Gambling Commission. How many trained agents, how many law enforcement personnel will be needed to oversee Indian gambling in potentially over half the States in America? That will be no small chore. Presently, the Bureau of Indian Affairs and Tribal law enforcement on reservations is almost without exception woefully inadequate. Crime on the reservation has been a problem of staggering proportions without the addition of gambling to monitor. Without an adequate Indian law enforcement organization in place, the charge should be left to the States which, in most cases where gambling is permitted, have trained and effective law enforcement personnel.

Without allowing the States to have an active voice and role in gambling within their borders makes H.R. 1920 as it stands unacceptable. We understand that gambling can take place under current court decisions as they now stand. One should not react with a law that confirms these decisions in a way that is not good or acceptable to the vast majority of individuals who may wish to take part in Indian gambling activities.
