In 1982, he became the youngest full general in U.S. history and was appointed to command NATO in 1986—a position he held until 1983.

As NATO commander, Norstad weathered some of the most dangerous crises of the Cold War: Berlin in 1981 and Cuba in 1989. He had the skills of a diplomat while serving as the Free World’s top soldier on the front line of the East-West confrontation. He had to balance conflicting interests on a continuous basis concerning nuclear disarmament, France’s war with Algeria, the evolving role of nuclear weapons in the defense of Europe, and many others. General Norstad performed with grace and ability that will be long remembered.

Upon retirement from the military, Lauris Norstad did not, contrary to the aphorism about old soldiers, fade away. He joined Owens-Corning Fiberglass and rose to become CEO. Sales more than doubled under his leadership. He also served as a director of a number of other large companies. After a lifetime of leading in military and security affairs, General Norstad went on to become a force in private enterprise.

Mr. President, a truly great American has passed away. I am sure my colleagues join me in expressing condolences to Lauris Norstad’s family. Our Nation—and the world—will miss Gen. Lauris Norstad.

(B) Any State and any Indian tribe may enter into a Tribal-State compact governing gaming activities on the Indian lands of the Indian tribe, but such compact shall take effect only when notice of approval by the Secretary of such compact has been published in the Federal Register by the Secretary of the Interior.

(C) Any Tribal-State compact negotiated under subparagraph (A) may include provisions relating to—

(i) the adoption of the criminal and civil laws and regulations of the Indian tribe or the State that are directly related to, and necessary for, the licensing and regulation of the Indian tribe's gaming activities;

(4) Nothing in this section shall be interpreted as conferring upon a State or any of its political subdivisions authority to impose a tax, fee, charge, or other assessment upon an Indian tribe or upon any other person or entity authorized by an Indian tribe to engage in a Class III activity. Any tax, fee, charge, or other assessment upon an Indian tribe or upon any other person or entity authorized by an Indian tribe to engage in a Class III activity shall be subject to the negotiation described in paragraph (3)(A) based upon the lack of authority in such State, or its political subdivisions, to impose such a tax, fee, charge, or other assessment.

(5) Nothing in this subsection shall impair the right of an Indian tribe to regulate Class III gaming on its Indian lands concurrently with the State, except to the extent that such regulation is inconsistent with, or less stringent than, the State laws and regulations made applicable by any Tribal-State compact governing the Indian tribe under paragraph (3) that is in effect.

(6) The provisions of section 5 of the Act of January 2, 1951 (64 Stat. 1135) shall not apply to any gaming conducted under a Tribal-State compact that—

(B)(i) An Indian tribe may initiate a cause of action under subparagraph (A)(i) only after the close of the 180-day period beginning on the date on which the Indian tribe requested the State to enter into negotiations under paragraph (3).

(ii) In any action described in subparagraph (A)(i), upon the introduction of evidence by an Indian tribe that—

(I) a Tribal-State compact has not been entered into under paragraph (3), and

(II) the State did not respond to the request of the Indian tribe to negotiate such a compact or did not respond to such request in good faith, the burden of proof shall be upon the State to prove that the State has negotiated with the Indian tribe to include a Tribal-State compact governing the conduct of gaming activities.

(iii) If, in any action described in subparagraph (A), the court finds that the State has failed to negotiate in good faith with the Indian tribe to conclude a Tribal-State compact governing the conduct of gaming activities, the State shall order the Indian Tribe to conclude such a compact within 60 days. In determining in such an action whether a State has negotiated in good faith with the Indian tribe, the court—

(I) may take into account the public interest, public safety, criminality, financial integrity, and adverse economic impacts on existing gaming activities, and

(II) shall consider any demand by the State for direct taxation of the Indian tribe or of any Indian lands as evidence that the State has not negotiated in good faith.

(iv) If a State and an Indian tribe fail to conclude a Tribal-State compact governing the conduct of gaming activities on the Indian lands subject to the jurisdiction of such Indian tribe within the 60-day period provided in the order of a court issued under this section, the State shall enter into a compact with a mediator appointed by the court a proposed compact that represents their last best offer for a compact. (v) The mediator appointed by the court under clause (iv) shall submit to the State and the Indian tribe the compact selected by the mediator.

(vi) If a State consents to a proposed compact during the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the proposed compact is submitted to the State under clause (v), the proposed compact shall be treated as a Tribal-State compact entered into under paragraph (3).

(vii) If the State does not consent during the 60-day period described in clause (vi) to a proposed compact submitted by a mediator under clause (v), the mediator shall notify the Indian tribe and the State in writing of the mediator's intention to prescribe, in consultation with the Indian tribe, procedures—

(I) which are consistent with the proposed compact selected by the mediator under clause (vi), the provisions of this Act, and the relevant provisions of the laws of the State, and

(II) under which class III gaming may be conducted on the Indian lands over which the Indian tribe has jurisdiction.

(b)(1) The Secretary is authorized to approve any Tribal-State compact entered into between an Indian tribe and a State governing gaming on Indian lands of such Indian tribe.

(b)(2) The Secretary may disapprove a compact described in subparagraph (a) only if such compact violates—

(i) any provision of this Act,

(ii) any other provision of Federal law that does not relate to jurisdiction over or on Indian lands, or

(iii) the trust obligations of the United States to Indians.

(b)(3) If the Secretary does not approve or disapprove a compact described in subparagraph (a) before the date that is 45 days after the date on which the compact is submitted to the Secretary for approval, the compact shall be considered to have been approved by the Secretary, but only to the extent that it is consistent with the provisions of this Act.

(b)(4) The Secretary shall publish in the Federal Register notice of any Tribal-State compact that has been submitted to, and approved by, the Chairman. The Chairman's review and approval of such compact shall be governed by those provisions of subsections (b)(1), (b)(2), (b)(3), and (b)(4) of section 12.

(c) For purposes of this section, but not later than the date that is 90 days after the date on which any tribal gaming ordinance or resolution is submitted to the Chairman, the Chairman shall approve such ordinance or resolution if it meets the requirements of such section. Any such ordinance or resolution not acted upon at the end of that 90-day period shall be considered to have been approved by the Chairman, but only to the extent that it is consistent with the provisions of this Act.

(6) for grounds and mechanisms for terminating such contract, but actual contract termination shall not require the approval of the Commission.

(2) Upon the request of an Indian tribe, the Chairman may approve a management contract providing for a fee based upon a percentage of the net revenues of a tribal gaming activity if the Chairman determines that such fee is reasonable and not excessive and is not greater than 10 percent of the net revenues of such activity.

(3) The Chairman shall have the authority to require appropriate contract modifications or may void any contract if he subsequently determines that any of the provisions of this section have been violated.

(b) The Commission shall, by regulation, provide an opportunity for an appeal and hearing before the imposition of any fines levied and collected by the Chairman.

CRIMINAL PENALTIES

Sec. 24. Consistent with title 18, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sections:

"§ 1166. Gambling in Indian country.

(b) Whoever in Indian country is guilty of an offense involving gambling, whether or not conducted or sanctioned by an Indian tribe, which, although not made punishable by enactment of Congress, was not punishable by a State law applicable to the same person and to the same extent as such laws apply elsewhere in the State.

Sec. 25. The provisions of section 53 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"§ 1167. Gambling in Indian country.

"§ 1167. Theft from gambling establishments on Indian lands.

"§ 1178. Theft by officers or employees of gaming establishments on Indian lands.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, the regulation of gaming facilities on Indian lands has been the subject of much controversy. Representatives of States with experience in regulating some forms of gaming activities, such as Nevada and California, have expressed much concern over the potential for the infiltration of organized crime or criminal elements in Indian gaming activities. The criminal division of the U.S. Department of Justice has expressed similar concerns, although as stated in Senator McCain's additional views to the committee's report on S. 658, in 15 years of gaming activity on Indian reservations, there has never been one clearly proven case of organized criminal activity.

Recognizing that the extension of State jurisdiction on Indian lands has traditionally been inimical to Indian interests, some have suggested the creation of a Federal regulatory agency to regulate classes II and III gaming activities on Indian lands. Justice Department officials were opposed to this approach, arguing that the expertise to regulate gaming activities and to enforce laws related to gaming could be found in the State agencies, and that there was no need to duplicate those mechanisms on a Federal level.

It is a long- and well-established principle of Federal-Indian law as expressed in the United States Constitution, reflected in Federal statutes, and articulated in decisions of the Supreme Court, that unless authorized by an Act of Congress, the jurisdiction of State governments and the application of State laws do not extend to Indian lands. In modern times, even Congress has enacted laws to allow a limited application of State law on Indian lands, the Congress has required the consent of tribal governments before State jurisdiction can be extended to tribal lands.

In determining what patterns of jurisdiction and regulation should govern the conduct of gaming activities on Indian lands, the committee has sought to preserve the principles which have guided the evolution of Federal-Indian law for over 150 years. In so doing, the committee has attempted to balance the need for sound regulation of gaming activities, and to ensure that the laws, with the strong Federal interest in preserving the sovereign rights of tribal governments to regulate activities and enforce laws on Indian lands. The committee recognizes and affirms the principle that by virtue of their original tribal status, tribes reserved certain rights when entering into treaties with the United States, and that today, tribal governments..."
retain all rights that were not expressly relinquished.

Consistent with these principles, the committee has developed a framework for the regulation of gambling activities on Indian lands which provides the States with the exercise of its sovereign rights, unless a tribe affirmatively elects to have State laws—

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, may we have order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BINGAMAN). The Senate will be in order. The Senator from Hawaii.

Mr. INOUYE. And State jurisdiction extend to tribal lands, the Congress will not unilaterally impose or allow State jurisdiction on Indian lands for the regulation of Indian gambling activities.

The mechanism for facilitating the unusual relationship in which a tribe might affirmatively seek the extension of State regulatory domination and the application of State laws to activities conducted on Indian land is a tribal-state compact. In no instance, does S. 555 contemplate the extension of State jurisdiction on the application of State laws for any other purpose. Further, it is the committee's intention that to the extent tribal governments elect to relinquish rights in a tribal-state compact that they might have otherwise reserved, the relinquishment of such rights shall be specific to the tribe so making the election, and shall not be construed to extend to other tribes, or as a general abrogation of other reserved rights or of tribal sovereignty.

It is also true that S. 555 does not contemplate and does not provide for the conduct of class III gaming activities on Indian lands in the absence of a tribal-state compact. In adopting this position, the committee has carefully considered the law enforcement concerns of both the United States Government, and the need to fashion a means by which differing public policies of these respective governmental entities can be accommodated and reconciled. This legislation is intended to provide a means by which tribal and State governments can realize their unique and individual governmental objectives, while at the same time, work together to develop a regulatory and jurisdictional pattern that will foster a consistency and uniformity in the manner in which laws regulating the conduct of gaming activities are applied. S. 555 is intended to expressly preempt the field in the governance of gaming activities on Indian lands and accordingly I urge my colleagues to adopt this important legislation, so that we may bring a final resolution to the much-debated issue of the regulation of the conduct of gaming activities on Indian lands.

Mr. PELL. Mr. President, I would like to thank the managers of S. 555, the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, and particularly the chairman of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs (Mr. Inouye), for their hard work and patience in achieving a consensus on this important measure.

In the clarification of State sovereignty, I have asked that language specifically citing the protections of the Rhode Island Indian Claims Settlement Act (Public Law 95-386) be stricken from S. 555. I understand that these protections clearly will not be in effect. Mr. INOUYE, I thank my colleague, the senior Senator from Rhode Island (Mr. Pell), and assure him that the protections of the Rhode Island Indian Claims Settlement Act (P.L. 95-386), will remain in effect and that the Narragansett Indian Tribe will remain subject to the civil, criminal, and regulatory laws of the State of Rhode Island.

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. President, I too would like to thank the chairman (Mr. Inouye) and members of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs for their cooperation and assistance. The chairman's statement makes it clear that any State laws, including bingo, in Rhode Island will remain subject to the civil, criminal, and regulatory laws of our State.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank you for including an amendment to clarify that lotto games are played only at the same location as bingo games which are class II games under the bill. I believe there are other Senators who have questioned whether lotto and lotteries are inter-changeable terms. This amendment makes it clear that they are not and that traditional type lottery games are indeed class III. As such, lotteries may only be conducted by a tribe if such games are otherwise legal in the State and if the tribe and the State have reached a compact to regulate such games.

I also appreciate the clarifying amendment relating to the prohibition on direct taxation by a State on Indian lands. The bill clearly prohibits any direct tax on Indian lands by any State but does not permit tribes and States to negotiate assessments that may be paid by a tribe to a State to cover the costs of any regulation and enforcement that is necessary to carry out the purposes of the compact. Tribes in my State are very concerned about the precedent of allowing States to have jurisdiction over Indian lands. I share those concerns and would like to ask about other precedents for State jurisdiction over Indian lands.

Mr. INOUYE. Thank you for your concern about this issue that goes to the heart of Indian country. First, let me say that under S. 555, there is no blanket transfer to any State of any forests of Indian tribes. Indian tribal governments are sovereign governments and exercise rights of self-government over their lands and members. This bill does not seek to invade or diminish that sovereignty. The issue has been how to resolve the clash between States and tribes with respect to sophisticated forms of gaming such as casinos and pari-mutuel betting.

States that allow such gaming have regulatory systems in place and are adamantly opposed to tribes operating such games unless they do so in accordance with State law. The States are interested in protecting their citizens, including tribal members, from unscrupulous persons is a concern shared by lawmakers everywhere, including tribal officials. However, it is simply not realistic for any but a very few tribes to set up regulatory systems. Nor did the Select Committee on Indian Affairs view as meritorious any suggestions for the establishment of a Federal regulatory mechanism to duplicate what already exists at the State level.

Therefore, for those tribes wishing to engage in such gaming, the most realistic option appeared to be State regulation. However, the committee was fully cognizant of the strenuous objections that would be raised by tribes to any outright transfer of State jurisdiction, even for the limited purpose of regulating class III gaming. Thus, the best option available is the approach taken by the committee on S. 555 and that is the tribal-state compact approach.

Under this provision, tribes that choose to engage in gaming may only do so if they work out a tribal-state compact with the State. Tribes that do not want any State jurisdiction on their lands are precluded from operation of what the bill refers to as class III gaming.

This is not the best of all possible worlds but the committee believes that tribes and States can sit down at the negotiating table as equal sovereigns, each with contributions to offer and to receive. There is and will be no transfer of jurisdiction without the full consent and request of the affected tribe and that will be governed by the terms of the agreement that such tribe is able to negotiate.

There is the additional issue of assimilative crimes. In many cases of criminal conduct in Indian country, the Federal courts use or borrow State law to punish such conduct. This bill provides that, as a matter of Federal law, State criminal laws on gambling may be used by the U.S. Government to prosecute Federal court violations of such crimes when committed in Indian country.

This is consistent with current practice under the Assimilative Crimes Act (18 U.S.C. 13), enacted in 1908. In addition, the Federal criminal codes beginning in 1909, there are other statutes such as the Indian Child Welfare Act and the Indian Education Act that require the adoption of the higher of either Federal or State health and safety standards in Indian country. Thus, this bill is clear, it follows that the State laws into Federal statute for Indian country, I hope that this explanation is helpful to my distinguished colleague, Mr. DOMENICI.

Mr. DOMENICI. Thank you for your remarks.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I would like to raise a question to the chairman of the committee concerning the effect of S. 555 on the Johnson Act, a Federal statute codified at 15 U.S.C. 1171 which, among other things, prohibits the use of gambling devices on Federal lands and Indian lands. As the chairman is well aware, this statute was enacted by Congress in 1959 and is a part of an effort to control organized crime and other criminal activity associated with gambling devices. The circumstances which led Congress to adopt the Johnson Act are no less compelling today than they were in 1959.

One of the significant provisions of the bill we are considering today is that we would waive the application of the Johnson Act for tribes who have negotiated compacts with a State for the operation of gambling devices as part of class III gaming operations. Would the chairman please confirm this Senator’s understanding that the limited waiver is the only respect in which S. 555 would modify the scope and effect of the Johnson Act?

Mr. INOUYE. Yes, the Senator is correct. The bill as reported by the committee would not alter the effect of the Johnson Act except to provide for a waiver of its application in the case of devices operated pursuant to a compact with the State in which the tribe is located. The bill is not intended to amend or otherwise alter the Johnson Act in any way.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I would like to engage the chairman in a colloquy regarding the meaning of the “grandfather clause” provided in the bill which permits the continued operation of certain “banking” card games in operation as of May 1, 1988. Specifically, this provision would permit the continued operation of class II gaming activities, of certain games played in the States of Washington, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Michigan which ordinarily would fall within the definition of class III gaming.

It has been this Senator’s understanding that this provision was adopted to protect tribes with existing investments in such games from hardships associated with changes in the law brought about by this legislation. This Senator also understands that the committee intended that the grandfather clause should not serve as the basis for expansion of existing gaming operations to new locations not in operation as of May 1, 1988. Would the chairman confirm that this provision does not provide authority for the establishment of new banking or card game operations or the institution of new games in existing operations?

Mr. INOUYE. The Senator is correct. The grandfather clause is intended to protect tribes with existing operations from hardship due to this change in the law. While the bill may permit the expansion of particular operations which were in existence as of May 1, 1988, for example, by the addition of gaming tables or seats in an existing establishment, it does not authorize the expansion of such operations to new locations, the establishment of new operations, or the institution of new gaming operations. In other words, both the gambling operation and the particular games played in that operation must have been in place on or before May 1, 1988, in order to have the benefit of this provision.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. President, there are several points concerning the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act that should be highlighted.

As we are all aware, many Indian tribes are opposed to S. 555 at least in part because of the potential of extending State jurisdiction over Indian lands for certain gaming activities. I wish to make it very clear that the committee has only provided for a mechanism to permit the transfer of limited State jurisdiction over Indian lands where an Indian tribe requests such a transfer as part of a tribal-State gaming compact for class III gaming. We intend that the two sovereigns—States and the Federal Government—will sit down together in negotiations on equal terms and come up with a recommended methodology for regulating class III gaming on Indian lands. Permitting the States even this limited say in matters that are usually in the exclusive domain of tribal government has been permitted only with extreme reluctance. As discussed in the committee report, gambling is a unique situation and our limited intrusion on the right of tribal self-governance in this area has no implications for any other area of tribal self-governance or State-tribal relations.

I wish to also make clear that when a tribe and a State negotiate a compact, there need be no imposition of State jurisdiction whatsoever. Language in the report, such as “the extension of State jurisdiction and the application of State laws” and “relinquishment of rights” must be read in their full context of a compact where a tribe retains its rights and is not subject to such extension or relinquishment. We are aware that the Fort Mohave Tribe and the State of Nevada have negotiated a potential compact where the tribe has chosen to be subject to Nevada’s extensive regulatory system in the Nevada portion of its reservation for its proposed casino operation. This compact is probably unique to its own set of facts and should not be viewed as a prototype. As the report makes clear compacts should not be used as subterfuge for the imposition of State jurisdiction on tribes.

As noted earlier a compact should be a consensual agreement between the sovereigns. It is entirely conceivable that a particular State will have no interest in operating any part of the regulatory system needed for a class III Indian gaming activity, and there will be no jurisdictional transfer recommended by the particular tribe and State. Each compact will need to consider, among other items, the experience and expertise of the particular tribe and State with gaming, and the existence of regulatory mechanisms within each government. Congress should expect a reasoned and rational approach to these compacts, and not simply a demand that tribes come under a State system.

Mr. INOUYE. The compacts are not intended to impose de facto State regulation. Rather, the idea is to create a consensual agreement between the two sovereign governments and it is up to those entities to determine what provisions will be in the compacts. Page 65 of the bill references the types of provisions that may go into compacts. These provisions are not requirements. Some tribes can assume more responsibility than others and it is entirely conceivable that a State may want to defer to a tribal regulatory authority and maintain only an oversight role.

I do want to publicly state that I hope the States will be fair and respectful of the authority of the tribes in negotiating these compacts and not take unnecessary advantage of the requirement for a compact.

Mr. EVANS. On the question of precedent, am I correct that the use of compacting methods in this bill are meant to be limited to tribal-State gaming compacts and that the use of compacts for this purpose is not to be extended to any new Federal-State compact?

I would note that while the legislation contemplates that the two sovereigns address their concerns in the most equitable fashion. There is no intent on the part of Congress that the compacting methodology be used in such areas as taxation, water rights, environmental regulation, and so forth. Conversely, the tribal power to regulate such activities, recognized by the U.S.
Supreme Court In cases such as United States versus Montana and Kerr-McGee versus Navajo Tribe, remain fully intact. The exigencies caused by the rapid growth of gaming in Indian country and the threat of corruption and infiltration by criminal elements in class III gaming warranted the utilization of existing State regulatory capabilities in this one narrow area. No precedent is meant to be set as to other forms. Mr. EVANS. Another concern that has been raised involves the grandfathering of certain cards games that would otherwise be class III activities as class II activities in the definitional section of the bill. All such games are still subject to the licensing and jurisdictional requirements of section 11. Section 11 establishes Federal standards for the Commission and the courts to follow in determining which games are within the jurisdiction of tribal gaming. I should point out that our definition section in the reported bill is different than either S. 555 or S. 1303 as introduced. In the introduced bills all card games were class II activities for Indian tribes. The bills as introduced reflect a viable reading of the current state of the law. It was only fair therefore to allow these activities to continue as class II.

Mr. INOUYE. The Senator is correct concerning the operation of the grandfathers clause and the rationale for including the provision.

Mr. EVANS. A collateral question has been concerning one card game in my State that had operated prior to the cutoff date. That is the game of the Lummi Indian Tribe and it is referred to in the committee report. The Lummi Tribe and the U.S. attorney, after a challenge to the tribe's card operation as a criminal, determined to have had a voluntary settlement agreement providing for the indefinite closure of the Lummi card room. My understanding is that under that settlement agreement in order to reopen the card room, the Lummi Tribe must obtain the approval of the Federal court for the Western District of Washington. Under the grandfather provision of S. 555 the Lummi Tribe would still be required to obtain such approval, which would also need to obtain a license under section 11 from the Commission, and as noted above, I would expect both decisions to turn on the analysis of State law as in the case of section 31(b)(1)(A).

Mr. INOUYE. The Senator is correct, that is the standard that governs the determination of whether any specific gaming is within the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe in a particular State.

Mr. EVANS. Another concern I have relative to subject areas that may be included in a class III compact is the provision allowing for State assessments to defray the costs of jointly regulating such activities. It is my understanding that this section does not contemplate the tribes bearing the entire costs of setting up State regulatory infrastructures where none have previously existed and that those assessments should strictly be directly and exclusively related to the costs of the States involvement in cooperatively regulating at a specific reservation.

Mr. INOUYE. The Senator's interpretation is accurate. These assessment provisions may also be used to provide an avenue by which the tribes may contract with the State for its regulatory services and reimburse the State for its expenses.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. President, on page 90 of the bill there is language proposing to amend chapter 53 of title 18 of the United States Code. It is my understanding that this language would, for the purposes of Federal law, make applicable to the entire country all State laws pertaining to licensing, regulation, or prohibition of gambling except class I and II gambling which would be regulated by a tribe or class III gambling which will be regulated by a tribal-State compact. Am I correct that this section is not intended to permit State jurisdiction over reservation gambling in the absence of tribal regulation or a tribal-State compact for class III gaming?

Mr. INOUYE. The vice chairman of the committee is correct. This section is to be read consistently with the compacting language on pages 60 and 61 of the bill which makes class III gambling on Indian lands illegal if conducted in the absence of a tribal-State compact. Such a compact would be applicable to all lands within the reservation.

Mr. EVANS. It is my understanding that the references in the bill to "Indian lands," "Indian lands of the Indian tribe," "Indian lands over which the tribe has jurisdiction," and "lands owned by the Indian tribes" are meant to be interpreted the same way to apply to all lands within reservation boundaries and trust lands outside the reservations. Is my understanding correct?

Mr. INOUYE. The Senator from Washington is correct. These references throughout the bill must be looked upon with reference to the definition of "Indian lands" on page 60 and 44 of the bill which includes all lands within the limits of any reservation and also trust lands outside the reservations.

Mr. EVANS. It is my understanding that the bill leaves undisturbed the tribe's right to totally prohibit certain forms of gambling within an Indian reservation, or to permit lands outside the reservation should the tribe so choose.

Mr. INOUYE. That is correct, the bill is intended to leave intact the tribe's regulatory authority over all lands within the reservation boundaries and upon trust or restricted lands outside the boundaries. The provisions of section 11(2) do not require a tribe to completely prohibit all or certain forms of gaming if they so desire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I rise to speak on an amendment. I know my distinguished friend from Washington is waiting to speak, as well as my friend from New Mexico.

First, Mr. President, I would like to thank the chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee for his distinguished friend and colleague from the State of Hawaii. Before I address the subject of the amendments, I would like to say a few words about his role in this legislation.

As you may know, a few days ago a number of Indian leaders held a press conference here in Washington to express their strong opposition to the bill now under consideration. I respect their right to hold such a forum. Indeed, I am involved in this very important piece of legislation which affects Indian economies throughout the Southwest, indeed the country.

Mr. President, unfortunately a few of the Indian leaders who spoke could not confine their remarks in opposition to the bill but had to engage in a personal attack on Senator Inouye by making the suggestion that his efforts on this bill were done for personal gain.

That charge is absolutely false. As this body knows, there is no man of higher integrity in this body than Senator Inouye. He has worked long and hard on a number of issues that are of deep concern to many native Americans. He has visited my State. He has visited every State in America that has significant native American populations. And as his friend and admirer, I deeply resent those allegations that were made to impugn the integrity of a truly great American.

Without having this body draw any judgment about any previous chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee, I think it is clear that Senator Inouye has provided the degree of leadership, degree of dedication, and the degree of commitment that has not been seen in that committee before. And I am sad, indeed obviously somewhat angry, that a few Indian leaders would choose to ignore that fact.

However, I am also aware of the far greater number of Indian people who would join me in thanking Senator Inouye for all his efforts, not on this piece of legislation alone, on which he has labored now for 2 years, but on all Indian affairs and on Indian reservations. I am grateful to Indian people from museums to Indian health to Indian education to preservation of Indian self-determination, to trying to right the wrongs that have been done to that persecuted minority of Americans that is the Indian Nation.

Mr. President, I do not want to labor the subject. I just strongly recommend to my Indian friends throughout the country that it is not helpful in any way to attack the integrity of one of the most respected men in America. And it makes it difficult, very frankly, for people on both sides of the aisle to work in a cooperative and trusting fashion.

Now, Mr. President, let me address the amendment, if I may. I point out, also, that as we have wrestled with this issue for the last 4 years, Congress has worked to reach a compromise, which would be agreeable to all parties concerned. Unfortunately we did not receive any support in those efforts at compromise, and I, of course, like most other Members of the committee, have serious concerns about the legislation before us, and I personally would have rather seen a different class III provision than the tribal-State compacts as called for. But for the reasons I have stated, my additional views on the three report, consultation for lack of support from tribes for any particular legislative solution, I am willing to give this approach a test. If after a period of time the compact approach proves unfair to Indian tribes in their ability to establish and operate class III gaming activities, then the Congress may have to revisit this class III provision.

Mr. President, the Indian community must understand that no gambling activity can take place anywhere without supervision and regulation. I could cite example after example of Indian communities where gambling has been established and unsavory and unwanted and indeed, in some cases, criminal elements have entered into that gaming enterprise and the Indians have suffered rather than gained from those gambling enterprises.

Mr. President, I can also tell you that I oppose personally gambling in my State. I oppose gambling on Indian reservations, but when Indian communities are faced with only one option for economic development, and that is to set up gambling on their reservations, then I cannot disapprove of those gambling operations.

Mr. President, I could go on. The hour is late. I have other Members who are waiting to speak, including my distinguished colleague and ranking member of the committee, Senator Evans, as well as my friend from New Mexico. The committee amendment I am cosponsoring with Senator Inouye would make technical corrections to the bill sent to the floor of the Senate. In addition to the technical changes, the committee amendment incorporates three of my amendments which will affect class II games only. The first change would be to reduce the number of Members of the National Indian Gaming Commission from five to three full-time Commissioners. The rationale for this change is to reduce the costs, borne in large part by gaming tribes, since the Commission would only be responsible for class II games. The amendment would also allow tribes that have excellent records in operating class II games to be subject to less onerous and less expensive Federal oversight of their gaming activities.
September 15, 1988

President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Hawaii.

Mr. INOUYE. I just wish to thank my distinguished friend from Arizona for his very generous comments and to tell him, too, will be watching the implementation of this bill very carefully. If it does not work, we will be watching this again.

Mr. EVANS addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

Mr. President, the legislation before us, the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, represents one of the very rare instances in the recent history of our relationship with Indian tribes when we have felt compelled to address public concern over the internal affairs of tribes. I appreciate the time allotted to me to clarify our intentions in introducing and moving this legislation through the Senate.

I first wish to commend the chairman of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs, Senator Inouye from Hawaii, who has been a stalwart in moving on important legislation during this Congress. The committee has been as active and as productive, I believe, in this Congress as in the previous several Congresses combined. He has introduced this bill and proceeded to bring it to final consideration.

Throughout the difficult process of developing this legislation Senator Inouye has worked diligently to accommodate the concerns of certain States and the non-Indian gaming industry in regards to self-governing rights of the tribes, and this is critically important in this legislation. With this in mind Mr. President, I want to emphasize our intended scope of the application and enforcement of this law.

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act does exactly that—regulates Indian gaming. By no means is any provision of this act intended to extend beyond the field of gaming in Indian country. Further, it has been drafted with the full understanding of the principles of law which guide our relationship with the Indian tribes.

The inherent sovereign rights of the Indian tribes are reserved by the tribes for the fullest and unencumbered benefit of the Indian people. These rights have been recognized time and time again by the highest courts of our Nation, and they continue to exist in critical instances where the Congress has exercised its power to restrict them. When this body has chosen to restrict the reserved sovereign rights of tribes, the courts have ruled that such abrogations of tribal rights must have been done expressly and unambiguously.

Many long hours were devoted to this legislation to iron out any possible ambiguities, and we hope to have achieved a bill both clear and concise in this regard. Therefore, if tribal rights and public safety are embedded in the language of this bill, no such restrictions should be construed. This act should not be construed as a departure from established principles of the legal relationship between the tribes and the United States. Instead, this law should be considered within the line of developed case law extending over a century and a half by the Supreme Court, including the basic principles set forth in the Cabazon decision.

The portion of this bill most troubling to the tribes is that which provides for a cooperative mechanism through which the tribes and the States can agree on the extent of Indian gaming that would be to the benefit to both the tribes and the States. The Tribal/State compact language intends that two sovereigns will sit down together in a negotiation on equal terms and at equal strength and come up with a method of regulating Indian gaming.

The provisions for Tribal/State compacting are not meant to favor either party, and are certainly not meant to propagate the extension of criminal or civil jurisdiction over Indian gaming, but rather are meant to provide an avenue for cooperative negotiations between the tribes and the States for regulating gaming in a manner beneficial to both parties.

I do hope, Mr. President, that the States will see the wisdom in dealing fairly and respectfully with the tribes, and will recognize the mutual benefit of integrating tribal entities and of integrating tribal economies into the general economy of the State.

I will not pretend to imply that I believe this act will conclude our dealings with gaming in Indian country, but I want to leave my colleagues with a message to share with their respective constituencies as the public becomes more and more educated on our unique relationship and responsibilities to the Indian tribes.

The first inhabitants of this continent played an integral role in the birth of this Nation and have been a source of great wealth, both spiritual and physical, in America's rise to prominence. Sadly, at times, in our textbooks and in our homes, we have sometimes been delinquent in giving credit and being gracious to the first American. We have sometimes failed to share our opportunities with the Indian while recognizing the Indians' right to live by their own values, to govern themselves, and to determine their own future for themselves, their children, and their cultures.

I firmly believe that we now stand at a crossroads, at a point where we may seize the opportunity to acknowledge the Indians' unequivocal right to self-determination and to invite the Indian tribes into the American mainstream. I am not advocating a return to the failed assimilationist policies of the past, but rather the possibility that the tribes can fully participate in our economic prosperity while they retain and while we respect their rights to decide to what extent and in what manner they choose to participate.

A new understanding of our economic relationship with the tribes would require, in the economic field even more than in others, that we treat the Indian not just as a race but as a political and legal entity as the courts have so ruled. With this understanding in the future we may avoid such legislation as before this Congress which has had such dangerous potential for infringing on tribal rights.

In the market for gaming as with other markets, the Indian tribes must accumulate wealth, develop track records, and make financial and market connections to succeed in our economic system. When any non-Indian entity gets the same benefit in these endeavors we proclaim it to be a booming economic sector ripe for productivity, employment, and financial opportunity. Unfortunately, when
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

Indian tribes and reservations succeed in these endeavors, the surrounding communities often are left, into a shroud of protectionism and isolationism accusing Indians of gathering the benefits which rightfully belong to the non-Indian community.

I am not here to wade about the interests surrounding this particular piece of legislation. The issue has never really been one of crime control, morality, or economic fairness. Lotteries and other forms of gambling abound in many States, charities, and church organizations nationwide. At issue is economics. At present Indian tribes may have a competitive economic advantage because, rightly or wrongly, many States have chosen not to allow the same types of gambling in which tribes are empowered to engage. Ironically, the strongest opponents of tribal authority over gaming on Indian lands are from States whose liberal gaming policies would allow them to compete on an equal basis with the tribes.

I am no more fond of gambling than any other Member of this body—probably less—and no less aware of the potential dangers of organized criminal infiltration of Indian gaming. In 15 years of commercial gaming on Indian reservations, however, tribes have proven more capable of controlling this potential problem than have some States in which high stakes gambling is played. Given this fact, the Indian gaming regulatory act should not be construed, either inside or outside the field of gaming, as a derogation of the tribes' right to govern themselves and to attain economic self-sufficiency.

Mr. President, the U.S. Constitution declares the U.S. Congress to be our Government's representative in its dealing with the Indian tribes. In my opinion it is incumbent upon us to deal fairly and respectfully with the tribes. We must impose greater moral restraints on Indians than we do on the rest of our citizenry. We must guard against being overly responsive to the political and economic interests of our constituents to the detriment of the less politically powerful Indian people, as some proponents who seek regulation of Indian gaming would have us do. We must acknowledge that the manner in which our Nation deals with its indigenous peoples is a human concern of importance to all of us on a national scale. Finally we must participate in educating our constituents of the rights and responsibilities which the Indian tribes and the United States have with regard to each other.

With that being said, Mr. President, I believe the act which we have before us has come as close as we can to providing appropriate regulation while at the same time not stepping over that very important boundary and derogating rights of Indian people any more than the rights they gave up 150 years ago in the signing of our treaties.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. DOMENICI. I wonder if the distinguished chairman will yield 3 minutes to the Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. INOUYE. Before I yield, I wish to thank my vice chairman for his very generous comments and to simply say I wish to associate myself with his remarks.

I will be very happy to yield whatever time the Senator needs.

Mr. DOMENICI. Three minutes.

Mr. INOUYE. Three minutes. Fine.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, first, let me thank the distinguished chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs, Senator INOUYE, for the colloquy in which he has engaged with the Senator from New Mexico. It was helpful to me, and I believe it will be helpful to our Indian people because it does, indeed, clarify again in a yet different way the Indian sovereignty and makes it unequivocal that there is no intention to denigrate Indian sovereignty. We are talking specifically about the mutual responsibility between the Indian people and the State in which they reside. The class of gambling beyond bingo will require entering into an agreement where both sovereigns, the State and the Indian people, attempt to arrive at a regulatory scheme which will adequately protect the Indian people and the non-Indian people.

I wish to associate myself with the remarks of the distinguished junior Senator from Arizona with reference to the chairman of this committee and his efforts in behalf of this bill. Not a day passes from roll call to roll call from New Mexico believe that the distinguished Senator from Hawaii had any ideas, any notions, or any reason to be involved in this bill other than he is concerned about the Indian people. He is also concerned about the evolution of gambling going on unattended in light of certain decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

While we do not all agree that this bill is perfect, and hardly any legislation is—and perhaps the Senator from New Mexico might even do it differently—I have checked around with the members of the committee, with many Members of the Senate, and I have reached the following conclusion. The committee has worked diligently in order to ratify one of the many forms of activity in years and has come up with this approach after hours and hours of difficult debate. Most Senators who have an interest in this issue because they are concerned about the Indian people or gambling or the combination thereof have concluded that this is the best we are going to do and we ought to get on with doing it.

It is for that reason I am here tonight saying, after a few amendments that were included in the chairman's technical amendments and the colloquy that he entered into with me, let us get on with sending this bill to the House.

Let me also say a few words about Indian economic opportunity, jobs for the Indian people. I hope that we really do look back 10 years from now and say that most of the jobs and economic prosperity is coming from gambling. I hope in 10 years we could look back and say we had to do this because our Indian people had such difficulty in getting economic opportunity to their people that they had to look to gambling. I hope we will be able to look back 10 years and say this was just part of a whole series of economic opportunities for our Indian people. They do not currently have that opportunity.

I think we ought to work with them, the States ought to work with them, and the business community in the United States ought to work with them, corporations ought to work with them to give them an opportunity to share in job opportunities. They need it desperately. If they have to resort to gambling, we have provided the right framework to do it in a fair and appropriate manner.

I thank the Chair and I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from North Dakota.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. BURDICK. Mr. President, while I support the committee to report the bill S. 555, a bill to regulate gambling on Indian country, the final bill has met with great opposition by tribes in my State of North Dakota.

In light of opposition both from the North Dakota Indian tribes who believe the bill goes too far in imposing State jurisdiction, and from Nicholas Spaeath, North Dakota attorney general who believes the bill does not go far enough to protect State interests, I am compelled to voice my opposition.

I am aware that the chairman of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs has worked long and hard to reach a viable compromise and compromise always means that no one interest will predominate over another. In particular, I am pleased to note that the issue of whether tribes should operate state-wide lotteries without a tribal/state compact has been resolved in the committee amendments. This was a particular concern that I voiced and I appreciate the chairman's assistance in this matter. I commend the chairman in his efforts but regret that I cannot support the bill.

I ask unanimous consent that a statement from Nicholas Speth, North Dakota attorney general be printed in the Record.

The bill being no objection, the letter order was discharged and the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

ATTORNEY GENERAL
STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA
Hon. Quentin Exum,
U.S. Senator, Hart Senate Office Building,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR EXUM: I received a copy of S. 555 as reported out of the Senate Committee. While I support the need for comprehensive federal legislation in the area of Indian gaming, I find it impossible to support S. 555 in its present form. I feel the citizens of North Dakota would be better off without congressional legislation than with this bill as it came out of committee.

Gambling is proliferating rapidly. An Indian tribe in the State of Minnesota is currently planning to erect a $4 to $5 million bingo facility and arrange for a license from the State of North Dakota to the tribal land and back. North Dakota tribes are advertising extensively in various media in an effort to solicit players to come to the reservations and play at their facilities. Almost 100 percent of the players participating in gaming on Indian lands are non-Indians. On at least one of the reservations, plans are made to develop casino gambling with unlimited stakes. The other reservations can be expected to follow shortly.

The need for regulating gambling is one that requires an in-depth understanding of the game and a great deal of experience with regulation. The gaming industry is particularly vulnerable to the cunning and technically sophisticated defrauder. It is also one that lends itself to embezzlement, skimming, and other examples of ‘white collar’ crime that are hard to detect and prove. Consider the innumerable problems that Atlantic City and the state of Nevada now experience with the type of regulation and enforcement they possess.

To allow the same type of gaming on Indian lands to be regulated by individuals with little or no experience, interest in regulation, or resources will subject the tribes to the highly probable threat of embezzlement and loss. It will also subject the citizens of the state of North Dakota to additional criminal elements, law enforcement problems, injury to their currently healthy charitable gaming industry, and pose social and economic problems in the future that the state, with its limited resources, will be hard pressed to handle.

I would like to point out specific problems I have with S. 555 as it is not proposed. There are many areas which I do not believe are in the best interests of the citizens of North Dakota. Those areas are as follows:

In the section on definitions, the bill provides for Section 1(4) to define 'Indian lands’ to mean all lands within the limits of an Indian reservation. Three of the North Dakota reservations has considered fee lands within the exterior boundaries of the reservation. Allowing tribal gaming and regulation on non-tribal lands with create considerable hostility and resentment among the substantial number of non-Indians in these areas.

In another section the following provision occurs: Section 19(8)(A)(I) defines class II gaming to include lotto. This would permit a tribally operated lottery. The citizens of North Dakota have voted down a state lottery by overwhelming numbers twice in the last 2½ years. Thus, the tribes in numerous states, including North Dakota tribes, could circumvent the state’s will by exploiting the ignorance with which the majority of our citizens have clearly indicated they do not want. Lotteries are typically multi-million dollar gaming operations. The companies who are the greatest beneficiaries of the game. Lotto is repressive in nature and preys on the lower social economic groups who can least afford to expend money in its pursuit. These are some of the reasons why North Dakotans have rejected lotteries twice in the recent past. We cannot allow lotteries to enter the state via Indian gaming.

Part I(1) of that same section discusses class II of the bill limits class II card games to only those games allowed by law in the state and only if they follow state law as to limits, hours, etc., etc. North Dakota laws exempt from this. The tribes in North Dakota may play the games operated before May 1, 1988. They may play these games up to the magnitude they are operated before that date. This effectively removes all bet limits from tribal card games allowing unlimited stakes in poker and blackjack on North Dakota reservations.

Currently, several of the reservations are running high-stakes or unlimited bet card games. Under S. 555, this could continue as a permanent adjustment. All card games should follow state rules and laws. The citizens of North Dakota intentionally placed betting limits on gaming to avoid high-stakes casino gambling and its accompanying problems. Our citizens are greatly concerned about unregulated gambling on Indian lands. Complaints to my office voice resentment at the availability of high-stakes or unregulated gambling on Indian lands.

Section 8(8)D provides for a state-tribe compact dealing with class II gaming to be entered into and signed. The compact must address the legalization of electronic and video poker, blackjack, bingo, and other similar games. Currently, those games are illegal in the State of North Dakota. This bill requires the state to negotiate in “good faith” with the tribes to legalize such games. It imposes a limit of one year in which to establish these compacts. If within that one year the state is not acting in “good faith” in enacting such a compact, then court remedies are the option. This places the total burden upon the State of North Dakota. This section will certainly result in litigation which will be costly and time consuming. North Dakotans should decide whether or not to negotiate with the tribes. If they do not decide, then and only then should Indian reservations be allowed to conduct such games.

Section 5 establishes a national Indian gaming commission. As previously discussed, the regulation of gaming is a highly specialized endeavor requiring specific expertise and years of commitment, high interest, and willingness to enforce complex laws fairly and equally to all, and a highly trained professional staff. Even the New Jersey and Nevada experiences, as well as our personal experiences in North Dakota, indicate that regulation is extremely difficult. In addition, it is only fair to the citizens of North Dakota, to charge they are dependent on gaming funds, and to minimize law enforcement problems that regulation be fair, knowledgeable, and consistent throughout the state. The experience with tribal regulation of gaming has shown that none of the above exist.

The creation of an understaffed, inexperienced commission which has inadequate authority over all Indian gaming organizations for the majority of its funding will not remedy the problems related to gaming enforcement. I am especially concerned that clarification of their responsibilities will be dependent upon a commission which has an inherent conflict of interest. That conflict is that its budget will be, to a large degree, dependent upon the organization that it will regulate. This can have no other effect but to cloud its objectivity and to weaken its enforcement stance. It will also encourage the committee allow competitive advantages to tribal organizations and thus, enhance its funding.

Section 11(4)A allows the tribes to license non-Indian gaming operations without subjecting the non-Indians to state regulation. The tribe is required to enforce state laws and regulations of gaming. However, their track record in North Dakota has not been good. Illegal gaming has been tolerated and the tribes have regulated the activities conducted on reservations. It is a competitive advantage that non-Indians who may be located on the fee land within “Indian lands” should be treated differently than non-Indians located anywhere else in the state of North Dakota.

I feel that it is a basic principle of justice that regulation must be fair and equal for all. As long as tribal governments and Indian gaming organizations are required to abide by the same rules as state organizations, thus not providing the tribe with a competitive advantage or ineffective regulation, then justice is being served.

Section (D)3A provides that tribes may request states to enter into compacts government to government (tribal-state compacts). The burden is on the state to negotiate in good faith. Once the tribe makes such a request, the state must negotiate with them. The state of North Dakota can negotiate with whatever tribe in the United States negotiates the most liberal contract anywhere in the United States. If a state with a small Indian population and no understanding of the problems encountered in regulating gaming agreed to a liberal, unworkable compact, all other states would be hard pressed not to agree to that same compact or risk being found to be not acting in “good faith.” This is not arm’s length negotiations, but a forking of the states to allow very liberal compacts within their borders.

As it relates to class III gaming, S. 555 biggest weakness is that it does not impose a moratorium. In the past, the delegation of gaming regulation contained a three to five year moratorium on class III gaming. This gives states, tribes, and the federal government time to establish the fundamental parameters of gaming. The moratorium makes clear that class III gaming is a matter of state rights or federal interest. As it is now written, state and federal interests are left to be determined by the courts.

As stated in 11(3)(T)(I), “the state shall negotiate with the Indian tribes in good faith to enter into a compact.” North Dakota will be required to negotiate. To do so, we will have to leap before we can walk. Without a chance to see if the tribes will regulate gaming and to what extent they will regulate that gambling, the state must enter into negotiations to allow casinos within its borders. North Dakota’s experience with high-stake casinos is minimal. Yet now, the state must negotiate within a short period of time (no more than one year) to allow casinos within its borders. Failing to negotiate in good faith on this issue would be unfair to a mediator or the courts to impose a compact. A moratorium must be put back into the bill.

For all of the above reasons, North Dakota would be better off with no congres- sional legislation than with S. 555 as it presently exists. If the problems addressed herein, i.e., deletion of the federal commis- sion, a moratorium on class III gaming, the treatment of all card games the same, etc., are corrected, then such a bill would greatly benefit North Dakota and its citizens.

Sincerely,

NICHOLAS J. SPAETH

Mr. HECHT. Thank you, Mr. Presi- dent.

I wish to thank the distinguished Senator from Hawaii, Senator Inouye, for his outstanding leadership on this bill and all who have worked with him. The resort business and gaming is our main industry for Nevada. I have been in Nevada for over 40 years. And the regulation of gambling is very im- portant not only to Nevada, but to the rest of the country, Mr. President, this is a good bill that we are acting on today. And on a personal note I would like to state that I have been in the resort business, and hold a gaming li- cense with hotel stock that is in a blind trust. I represent Nevada in the U.S. Senate, and the resort business is our main economy.

Again, my thanks to the distin- guished Senator from Hawaii, Senator Inouye, for his outstanding leadership on this very important legislation.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I thank my friend from Nevada.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, I think it is quite clear that this bill is going to pass today in its present form, and I do not propose to take up the Senate’s time attempting to postpone the inevi- table. I would, however, like to briefly express my concerns about this legisla- tion.

This bill represents a sincere effort by the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs to craft a mechanism for regulation of gaming on Indian reservations that is consistent with ac- cepted principles of tribal sovereignty. The most difficult issue to resolve has been how to best regulate on Indian reservations activities such as casino gambling and dog and horse racing which are regulated in different ways by different States, are potential- ally high profit enterprises, and in the past at the State level have experi- enced problems with attempted infil- tration by organized crime.

These types of gaming operations are classified in the bill as class III games and, tribes can run class III games only in accordance with com- pacts negotiated with State govern- ments. I appreciate that the State-tribal compact concept incorporated in the legislation is the correct approach between States and Indian tribes. It is not clear to me that the current bill language achieves this goal, but I certainly hope to be proved wrong, and understand the reasons why the committee wishes to facilitate Indian-state discussions of this issue.

If there are future efforts, however, to extend this type of compact to other types of regulation of Indian activities, I will probably oppose it because this might well result in significant State intrusions into regulation of tribal ac- tivities.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, as a member of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs, and as an original cosponsor of S. 555, I regretfully object to the final version of this bill. I will cast my vote accordingly.

My reason for opposing the bill is that those Indian tribes from South Dakota whom I represent have in- formed me that this bill is unaccept- able. The tribes strongly object to any form of direct or indirect State juris- diction over tribal matters. They believe the provisions calling for a tribal-State commission are in derogation of the status of Indian tribes as domestic sov- ereign nations. The direct or indirect application of State law in Indian country, they believe, is a dangerous and unwarranted precedent for fur- ther inroads upon tribal sovereignty. They further believe that opposition to Indian self-determination and strong tribal government will use this unwarranted precedent as a justifica- tion for State taxation, zoning, water regulation and further jurisdiction over tribal activities.

Tribes have traditionally opposed any State jurisdiction interfering with their sovereign powers to regulate internal affairs on tribal lands. This bill would establish Federal guidelines for water use and would be within the context of the tribal-Feder- al government-to-government relation- ship. State jurisdiction, however, is outside that relationship.

As the Friends Committee on Na- tional Legislation has pointed out, S. 555 represents the first time a State would have jurisdiction over tribal af- fairs rather than over individuals. This organization maintains that S. 555 would have a more intrusive effect on tribal sovereignty than Public Law 280, even in States which rejected Public Law 280 when it was possible to take on jurisdiction without the con- sent of tribes. Furthermore, S. 555 would erode the intent of the Indian Civil Rights Act of 1968" which forbids States to take civil or criminal ju- dicial action over Indians without tribal consent.

Even though the selection commit- tee has made a serious effort to ad- dress these concerns in the report lan- guage accompanying the bill, the tribes I represent remain skeptical. I cannot, therefore, in good faith con- tinue to support the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amend- ment of the Senator from Hawaii? If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Hawaii (Mr. Inouye).

The amendment (No. 3039) was agreed to.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EVANS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I ask for final passage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Washington yield back the remainder of his time?

Mr. EVANS. I yield back the remain- der of my time.

Mr. INOUYE. I yield back the re- mainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the commit- tee amendment in the nature of a sub- stitute, as amended.

The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. CRANSTON. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed, as follows:
